Number of Districts Reduced to Eight

Legislators 'OK' Reapportionment Plan

KINGSTON

The final reapportionment plan devised by the Ulster County GOP, after consideration of innumerable proposals, received approval by a party line 22 to 5 vote of the County Legislature Tuesday night and awaits a public hearing on Tuesday, Feb. 20 at 8 p.m. in the County Office Building.

The Republican plan reduces the present 12 legislative districts to eight instead of nine as originally proposed and is exactly the same as the plan outlined in The Daily Freeman last Wednesday with the exception of doubling up two districts. The makeup of the districts under the one-man, one-vote concept is as follows:

- District One—Saugerties, four legislators.
- District Two—Town of Ulster and Town of Kingston, three legislators.
- District Three—City of Kingston, six legislators.
- District Four—Woodstock, Shandaken, Denning and Hardenburgh, two legislators.
- District Five—Olive, Hurley, Marletown and Rochester, four legislators.
- District Six—Esopus and Rosendale, three legislators.
- District Seven—Wawarsing and Shawangunk.

● District Eight—New Faltz, Gardiner, Plattekill, Lloyd and Marlboro.

Under the original plan considered, Lloyd and Marlboro were in a separate legislative district.

The apportionment was based on the latest official federal decennial census for total county population and has a deviation factor of 6.78 per cent. The allowable deviation is 12 per cent according to County Attorney Abram Molyneux.

The vote on the local law calling for the public hearing did not come without much oratory and an alternate plan submitted by the Democratic minority members of the Legislature.

Minority Leader Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City) presented the plan as an alternate in the interests of bipartisanship. He accused the GOP of destroying the two-party system and asked why the Democratic members of the Legislature had not been consulted in the drawing of the reapportionment plan.

Majority Leader Ernest John Gardner (R-Dist. 11) pointed out that the Democratic plan had a 17.2 per cent deviation factor and was not within the 12 per cent limit.

Calling the proposed reapportionment "the most practical plan that is representative of the people of the county," Melvin Mones (R-City) cited the time, travel and expense that went into the drawing of the plan.

Dr. Gorman had questioned why the plan was being presented with rapidity and asked why the GOP had not consulted with "one member of the Democratic Party?"

Mones recalled that the Democratic Party in the City of Kingston reapportioned several years ago and "it was the worst ravishment of the GOP party in recent years."

Woodstock Legislator William West (R-Dist. 12) suggested that it was political naivete to think that reapportionment could be a bi-partisan effort and he further suggested that both parties have had a year and a half "to play around with reapportionment figures" therefore it was not a rapid fire affair.

At present there are 33 members on the county board and the number remains the same under the new plan. Currently there are 24 Republicans and nine Democrats.

The new plan reduces the number of city legislators from eight to six, in consideration with the City of Kingston's declining population and it offers the additional legislators to the county districts.

All county seats are up for reelection this year.

The proposed plan will become law unless a person or group of persons petitions successfully for a permissive referendum, then a special election would have to be held before the regular November election.

No announced move has been made as yet to redistrict the City of Kingston's 13 wards in line with the one-man, one-vote concept although Mones told the Legislature Tuesday night that city reapportionment meetings are being held in the city by the Democrats. He commented that Brian Smith, Republican minority leader of the Common Council, had not been invited to such meetings.

The GOP is presently in the minority in the city with the Democrats enjoying a 9 to 4 edge on the Common Council.

The county redistricters had a number of choices open to them. They could have called for the creation of 33 single member districts which would have, in some cases adhered to town and election district lines and in other cases would elude such lines. Another alternative would have been to run all 33 county legislators as county officers with no regard for specific districts.

The last time the county was reapportioned was in 1968.

The vote on the local law on reapportionment strictly adhered to party lines with the following legislators absent: George Barthel (D-Dist. 10), James Carroll (D-City), Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2), Harry C. Kaprelian (R-City), Lewis C. Kirschner (D-Dist. 7) and Louis Klein (D-Dist. 7).

First Group... 22 POWs Head For United States

CLARK AIR BASE, Philip (AP) — Twenty military officials at planeside: "I would like to express our thanks to a Vietnamese man who helped us that your feeling is as deep as ours, and that is the highest compliment I can pay for the wonderful welcome we received here."

The men departed a day ahead of schedule. Their big C141 Starlifter hospital jet was due at California's Travis Air Force Base about 4 p.m. EST. Forty more POWs will follow Thursday in two planes. This will leave 80 of the men freed Monday still at Clark and one in Saigon. Two others were flown home Tuesday because of serious illness in their families.

Speaking for the group that left today, Capt. Jeremiah A. Denton of Virginia Beach, Va., reporter called out as Davis cuddled the pup for the photograph before taking it aboard the plane.

"They tell me it means 'dog without hair,'" Davis replied. Flight Nurse Patricia M. O'Reilly of New York City, who helped smuggle the dog aboard the evacuation plane in Hanoi Monday, ran up and embraced Davis.

"I risked being court-martialed for insubordination by smuggling the puppy on the plane," she said, "but I figured that would be better than having to go back to get him."

Officials of Operation Homecoming said most of the remaining men will be back in the United States by the weekend. But doctors at the base hospital where they were quartered reported a few wanted to remain for plastic surgery.

"Some of these men have bad scars on their arms from being bound for a long time with one doctor explained. "Others, their war wounds healed badly."

Officials originally thought at least three days would be needed to prepare the men for their return to America, but they speeded up the timetable because of the good condition of many of the men and their enthusiasm to get going.

Meanwhile, U.S. and North Vietnamese officials met in Saigon to make arrangements for the transfer of 20 more American POWs who Hanoi announced would be released within the next few days. A North Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon said the date for the release had not been decided but the decision was expected soon.

Earlier today, Denton and two other POWs went to the Virgil I. Grissom School for children of freed men's thanks for greeting cards and posters the children had drawn and sent them on their arrival Monday.

More than 100 of the men went on a buying spree at the base exchange Tuesday night, and many of them had the first beers of their new freedom. "They sure are getting frisky," said one official. "Some of them tried to commandeer a bus to drive to the officers' club for dinner. I don't think the doctors involved in planning for the POW return figured they would be so healthy."

God Answered Prayers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The first U.S. prisoner of war home from Vietnam went straight to the bedside of his critically ill mother and told her that if he could make it, then she could too.

Navy Cmdr. Brian D. Woods, feeling "on top of the world," stepped briskly on to American soil Tuesday night to head the parade of returning men held captive for lonely years.

Woods' petite, red-haired wife, Paula, gave him an embrace and a kiss to remember while they stood on the apron of the Miramar Naval Air Station amid the Navy brass while their three children looked on smiling. There had been minutes of anxiety earlier when the plane circled overhead because of trouble with its landing flaps. It landed without trouble.

Then the 40-year-old pilot, lost over North Vietnam in 1968, drove to Coronado Hospital, where his 70-year-old mother was under intensive care for a heart ailment and had grown steadily weaker.

Woods spent 30 minutes with his mother and emerged smiling. He was asked what he told her.

"I told her that your prodigal child is home and now there is no reason why you can't get better," he said.

What did she say? "She said that God had answered her prayers," he replied.

A giant C141 Starlifter jet had been specially assigned to bring home Woods and Air Force

Major Glendon W. Perkins, 38, whose mother was also gravely ill in Orlando, Fla.

They were the first to reach the mainland since the signing of the cease-fire. Perkins flew directly on in a hospital plane to Maxwell, Ala.

Natty in a tan Navy uniform and with a spring in his step, Woods told newsmen during a brief ceremony at Miramar that he was proud to have honor of being the first back.

"I am happy and proud to be here and there's a batch of great guys right behind me," he said.

"We are proud to be Americans and proud to have served our country."

There was a moment of anxiety at the air base when the plane became almost a father.

Putting Their Hearts Into Special Valentine

The children of the Hurley Nursery School have a very special Valentine. He is BCI Investigator Wayne Beyea of the State Police. When the school was vandalized recently, he located much of the missing school equipment. In keeping with today, the children put their hearts into the biggest Valentine tribute they could find. Making the presentation to Investigator Beyea at the Hurley Barracks are Carol Weber (L) teacher, Kim Hoffman, Cathy Sanglyn, Sima and Jena Payman, and Sara Hesse. (Freeman photo by Haines)

WELCOME HOME—Still holding his arm around his wife, Pauline, Navy Cmdr. Brian Woods reaches over to hug his father, Rear Adm. Both Sides Agree... U.S. Dollars to Rebuild

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and North Vietnam will create a joint economic commission to oversee rebuilding of the war-torn country with U.S. dollars, the two sides announced today.

A communique issued by the White House and issued by President Nixon's envoy, Henry A. Kissinger, and North Vietnamese leaders in Hanoi listed no specific figures for U.S. postwar aid.

But the language displayed a new cordiality between the two nations. "The normalization of relations between the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam and the United States will help to insure stable peace in Vietnam and contribute to the cause of peace in Indochina and Southeast Asia," the communique said.

The announcement said the two Indochina war enemies "agreed that they would continue to have periodic exchanges of views in order to ensure that the (cease fire) agreement and its protocols are strictly and scrupulously implemented."

The two sides pledged anew to carefully adhere to all of the provisions which ended the fighting in South Vietnam and the bombing of North Vietnam. Kissinger was in Hanoi from Saturday through Tuesday. He is now resting in Hong Kong before embarking Thursday on a diplomatic mission to China.

In the Washington-Hanoi communique, the two nations pledged to "strive for a new relationship based on respect for each other's independence and sovereignty, noninterference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit."

"The two sides exchanged views on the manner in which cease fire agreement however the United States will contribute to healing the wounds of subject to negotiations and that there was no reason to focus on reconstruction in North Vietnam," the communique said.

In one paragraph of the communique, North Vietnam appeared to recognize the independence and sovereignty of South Vietnam as a separate nation. During the long Paris peace talks, Hanoi had insisted that North and South Vietnam were part of the same sovereign state.

"The two sides reaffirmed that the problems existing between the Indochinese countries should be settled by the agreement. President Nixon had spoken of a $7.5 billion reconstruction program for Vietnam with $2.5 billion targeted for the North. Kissinger said following the affairs," the communique said.

6 Per Cent Food Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department says 1973 supermarket prices will average 6 to 6.5 per cent above 1972—the sharpest one-year increase in 22 years.

But it said most of this annual gain has already taken place, and it predicted consumers will find the pace of price hikes slowing as meat supplies rise.

In a "Food Situation Report," the department economists said success of its overall Phase III economic control program. 4.5 per cent last year, 2.4 per cent in 1971, and 4 per cent in 1970. The 1973 increase would account for much of the gain, a government economist said, and have forced upward revision of earlier forecasts for 1973 food prices.

The 1973 price predictions are of all food—both products bought at supermarkets for home use and foods consumed in restaurants—probably will average around 6 per cent above 1972. A department official only last week that prices of raw farm products would be down from the 1972 level. Supermarket prices increased 4.5 per cent last year, 2.4 per cent in 1971, and 4 per cent in 1970. The 1973 increase would account for much of the gain, a government economist said, and have forced upward revision of earlier forecasts for 1973 food prices.

City UDC Office Forced to Close

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Herbert Morris, area director for the State Urban Development Corporation, told The Freeman today that UDC will close its local offices at 61 Albany Avenue on March 16 and will thereafter operate out of its offices at 41 State Street in Albany.

The closing was forced, Morris said, by cutbacks in the federal subsidized housing program and by an across the board 10 per cent cutback in UDC personnel.

The closing of the local office, Morris said, will have no effect on the two UDC projects currently in construction: the $3.8 million Broadway East 122-unit apartment complex in Kingston and the $2.3 million Chambers Farm Elderly Housing project in the Town of Ulster which will provide 125 units by mid-1974. The Broadway East Project is on schedule for a June 1 occupancy, Morris said, adding that an on-site rental office will be opened some time next month.

While projects already started state; it gets its operating funds by charging fees for the rent subsidies will be available, projects it undertakes. UDC anticipates a sharp decline in the future of such programs is very much in doubt, Morris said today. "The whole federal subsidized (rental) program is dead except for what we started," he said. Morris explained that UDC does not receive appropriations from the federal government, but competes with the Stony Run with rents of $250 and $300 a month. Top rentals on an income of less than $10,000 for a four-room apartment in a Broadway East UDC project is pegged at less than $200 a month. Morris is anticipating three possibilities for renewed funding of subsidies: either directly from the state; or a federal exception for senior citizen units or some new subsidy program or new direction from the federal government. "If there isn't there won't be any (low to moderate income) new housing built by anyone," Morris predicted. He said that Ulster County needs a minimum of 1,000 such units over the next five years.

HEART FUND VOLUNTEERS — Volunteers from STAAR'S (State Associated Young Republicans), an organization of young Republicans from the Ulster County area, prepare materials for this year's Heart Fund Campaign. The young workers plan to canvass, door-to-door, the Third Ward section of Kingston under the direction of Third Ward Alderman Brian D. Smith. They will be joined by more than 2,000 other volunteers throughout Ulster County in the campaign to raise funds to conquer heart disease. Others willing to participate in the 1973 drive should contact the Mid-Hudson Heart Association at 72 Main Street. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Agricultural District... 'Doubt'

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK — The shape of things to come in the proposed agricultural district for the Town of Red Hook remains in doubt.

In presenting an accounting of the proposals' route toward eventual acceptance by the state, Red Hook farmer Robert Greig told the Town Board Tuesday night that the Dutchess County Planning Board had added about 1,200 acres of adjacent land to the almost 3,000 acres already in the proposal that the town had approved.

This aroused Supervisor Warren Simmons to remark that he preferred being kept informed on such decisions by the County Planning Board prior to their decisions.

The district, made possible by an act of the state legislature in its last session, would have the acreage in the district supposedly taxed as farm land, enabling the farmer to continue his livelihood and forestall what Greig called "confiscatory taxes."

He said that he personally would not apply for agricultural assessment as long as he is "not squeezed out" of farming by taxes. The new figure would comprise about 10 per cent of the town area.

It has been approved by the Agriculture Committee of the County Board of Representatives. After a public hearing, the entire Board of Representatives would have to give its approval.

In other business, the Town Board approved its previous resolution for restructuring of the board, following a public hearing with no opposition. Simmons cited the main reason as potential conflict of interest.

Barring a permissive referendum forced by petition within 60 days, the political parties will choose candidates in August caucuses to run for the two new councilman seats. Town Justices will no longer serve on the board after Jan. 1, 1974.

Judge Ellmore Fraleigh congratulated Highway Superintendent Lawrence Hagan for an outstanding job in securing bids in various fields, thereby probably saving the town money.

A request from the Town of Rhinebeck for the Red Hook Town Board to endorse an environmental statement was approved.

The statement adopted by Rhinebeck was protesting "obnoxious" smoke, odor, and dust particles from the Hudson Cement Plant in downtown Kingston.

That brings to three the number of Dutchess County towns protesting alleged air pollution by the cement plant, as the Town of Hyde Park also joined in Rhinebeck's resolution.

And in the future, persons needing or seeking variances or special permits in the town may have to dig deeper into their pockets for the right change.

The Zoning Board of Appeals has asked the Town Board to increase fees for these two items, from $5 for a variance to $25, and from $20 for a special permit to $75 or $100.

Simmons noted, "We are presently not covering costs with this setup." The matter was tabled.

APPRECIATION — When M/Sgt. William A. Robinson (L) from Robersonville, N. C., and Capt. Jeremiah Denton Jr., USN, Virginia Beach, Va., arrived at Clark Air Base's Gris-son Elementary School to thank the students for painting welcoming posters, the students surprised the men with valentines and candy. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

'Who Are You Daddy, Superman?'

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER
HAWTHORNE, Calif. (UPI) — Jeffrey Smith is only three and doesn't remember his father, a prisoner of war until Monday. But Jeffrey has been practicing with a tape recorder for the homecoming tonight. "Daddy, I love you. Daddy, I miss you. Who are you anyway, daddy? Are you Superman?" he said into the tape recorder. His father, Capt. Mark Smith, is due to land at Travis AFB, Calif. tonight. His family will be there. The Army notified them that the 26-year-old career soldier had passed his physical at Clark Air Base in the Philippines and would be among the first group evacuated to Travis AFB, Calif. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William "Jack" Smith, planned to accompany his wife, Carole, to see him at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco. His wife had a special Valentine's Day present for him — red silk underwear wrapped in red, white and blue paper. "I made two batches of cookies to take to him, but all the news people who were here ate them," she said. Mrs. Smith said she had "been buying new clothes since October. Everything I'm going to wear will be new to him."

Full Staff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American flags were ordered raised to full staff today to honor returning U.S. prisoners of war.

President Nixon issued the order in a proclamation Tuesday, taking the step after holding a telephone conversation with Lady Bird Johnson, the widow of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, who died in Texas Jan. 22.

The flags originally were to fly at half staff for one more week during a 30-day morning period for Johnson.

Nixon reported on his conversation with Mrs. Johnson in a statement issued by the White House.

"Mrs. Johnson and I agreed that for the American flag to be flying high for the prisoners' return to American soil would be the finest possible tribute both to her husband's memory and to the heroism of the prisoners and their families—as well as to the missing men, the men who gave their lives and all who helped to win peace with honor in Vietnam," the statement said.

Three AWOLs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three of the prisoners of war released Monday by the Viet Cong were listed as absent without leave from their Army units at the time they were captured.

The Defense Department identified the three today as Spec. 4 Keith Alexander Albert, 25, of Thibodaux, La.; Pvt. Ferdinand A. Rodriguez, 24, of Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Spec. 4 Richard Harold Springman, 23, of Cottonwood, Ariz.

Formal investigation will be launched after the men return to the United States to determine whether they were actually AWOL or whether the unit records were in error, a Pentagon spokesman said.

Albert and Springman had been POWs for almost three years, and Rodriguez was captured almost five years ago. All were among the captives set free at Loc Ninh, South Vietnam, 75 miles north of Saigon.

Army sources said under the circumstances legal action against the three young GIs, although theoretically possible, appeared unlikely. If formally charged with being AWOL and convicted, each could be sentenced to as much as six months' confinement.

Bittersweet Taste for Some

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A few of the returning prisoners of war will find that freedom has a bittersweet taste.

The wives of at least two of the men released Monday in the first batch of men freed from North Vietnamese and Viet Cong prison camps have gotten divorces; a third started separation proceedings but decided to hang on a while longer.

Mrs. Garland Kramer of Tulsa, Okla., disclosed Tuesday that she had obtained a divorce last June from her husband, an Air Force captain shot down in January 1967. The divorce was granted in Tulsa on the grounds of incompatibility.

"I knew I couldn't go back," she said. "We've grown apart."

Mrs. Kramer, who works for Rep. James Jones, (D-Okla.), said she had continued to write and send packages to Kramer while he was a prisoner of war.

She explained the divorce in a special letter she sent the Air Force for delivery to Kramer after his release.

She said that, when he left for Vietnam, she had been "neat and docile" but, since then, has studied politics, religion and been active in school and with their two children, Todd, 9, and Cynthia, 8.

The divorce, sought on March 24, 1972, and granted on June 30, is being contested by Kramer's father, who lives in Denver, Colo. He asked the courts to set it aside until his son's return.

Also facing a divorce is Cmdr. Everett Alvarez of Santa Clara, Calif., who was shot down Aug. 5, 1964, the first American pilot captured in the Vietnam war.

Two years ago, Alvarez' wife, Tangee, obtained a divorce and remarried. "I just fell out of love with Everett," she said last October when the divorce was revealed.

She identified her husband only as "Andy" and refused to disclose where she, her new spouse and their daughter were living.

Alvarez' mother, Mrs. Soledad Alvarez of San Jose, Calif., sent the news of the divorce to her son shortly after it was granted. She said he wrote back: "I hope her present husband loves her as much as I did."

The wife of Navy Cmdr. Raymond Vohden started divorce proceedings last year. She halted the proceedings when the peace talks resumed and said Monday she'll try to resume the marriage.

Discussing a call from her husband, who was shot down on April 3, 1965, Bonnie Vohden said: "The phone rang and he said, 'What the hell's going on?' I told him: 'Golly, you sound just as mean as ever.'"

450 More Reds to Be Freed

SAIGON (UPI) — Despite the heaviest fighting reported in 12 days, military sources said they plan to raise the number of freed Communists past the 1,000 mark today by releasing 450 more prisoners of war. The Saigon command said Communist troops committed 188 cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at dawn today — 20 more than the previous day and the highest since 200 were reported Feb. 2.

In the heaviest fighting, Saigon said six government marines and paratroopers were killed and 42 wounded in battles around Quang Tri City that left 17 North Vietnamese soldiers dead.

South Vietnamese military sources told UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis that 450 Communist POWs, most of them sick and disabled, would be released today just across the Thach Han River from Quang Tri city. It will be the first release of Communist POWs in the country's northern sector since the Vietnamese prisoner exchange began Monday.

By Tuesday, 600 Communist prisoners had been freed at Loc Ninh, a former U.S. Special Forces base 75 miles north of Saigon, and 711 South Vietnamese POWs had been released. There was no word on further South Vietnamese POW releases today.

The releases on both sides were behind schedule—a total of 1,020 South Vietnamese and 2,000 Communists were to have been freed Monday — but procedural bickering held up the operations. However, a South Vietnamese spokesman said Saigon still hopes to free up to 7,000 Communist POWs—more than one-fourth the total—within a week.

Current Financial Crisis Has Several Issues

LONDON (AP) — More and safer jobs, social progress, value for money, security from the womb to the tomb?

Or another 1929 Great Depression, with mass unemployment, hunger marches and general unrest?

These are the political issues at the heart of the current international financial crisis, the seventh since Britain devalued the pound in 1967.

In the years since, governments sometimes have treated money troubles as if they were the cause, not the symptom, of the world's economic imbalance.

Other times they have dillydallied for fear of taking drastic remedies that would hurt their political prospects.

But whether it's been America's Lyndon Johnson or Richard Nixon, France's Charles de Gaulle or Georges Pompidou, Britain's Harold Wilson or Edward Heath, or Japan's Eisaku Sato or Kakuei Tanaka, just about every national leader of modern times has tended to put the interests of his nation above those of his overseas partners.

AP Analysis

The familiar clash of national interests is clearly detectable in the current money crisis. America's leaders, their European allies and the Japanese share the same broad political aims and ideals. All are dedicated to democracy as a form of government. All are determined to resist the spread of communism. But none seems to be sure how, united, they can reconcile these political objectives with fair trading practices and a fair sharing of the defense burden.

The Nixon administration, for instance, has been telling Japan it must liberalize its import policy further. To do so would help bridge the huge gap in Japanese-American trade.

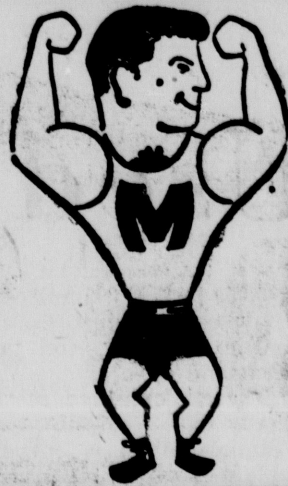

The Americans, perhaps less vehemently, also are insisting the nine members of the European Common Market should quit discriminating against U.S. food and other imports from America.

The Japanese and the Europeans repeatedly complain that the United States is a sinister, too. They point to various internal — meaning nontariff — barriers against foreign traders.

All this sort of thing is due for some hard negotiation at a world trade conference beginning Sept. 1. In the field of defense, too, the Americans feel the Japanese and Europeans could and should do more. Both live under the protection of the U.S. nuclear umbrella. Japan, by the constitution the United States forced on it, has its military forces committed to internal defense only. The Europeans, 28 years after World War II, dread the day that the 300,000-man U.S. garrison in Europe may be reduced.

Yet there are few signs that either the Japanese or the Europeans are ready to boost their defense spending by any sizable extent. Heath said in Washington recently that U.S. troops are in Europe as much for America's defense as for Europe's. He added the reminder that, for every American soldier in Europe, there are 10 European soldiers.

Questions and Answers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here are some frequently asked questions on the dollar devaluation and the answers, prepared by UPI economic writer Gene Carlson.

Q. What is a devaluation?
A. It's a reduction in the value of one currency relative to another. In this case, dollars will be worth about 10 per cent less than before, compared to the West German mark, French franc and most other currencies.

Q. Will I notice any effects of the devaluation?

A. If you like French wine, or plan to buy a Japanese camera or a German automobile, you'll find the prices will be going up. American travelers will find the dollar buys less than before in foreign countries.

Q. Sounds bad. Does this mean the U.S. economy is in trouble?

A. Not at all. One segment of the economy, the balance of payments with foreign nations, is in bad shape. But overall, the United States is growing faster with lower inflation than most of its trading partners.

Q. Why devalue then?
A. It's a tactic to force an end to the monetary crisis overseas by making the dollar more nearly reflect its true value in world markets. But the long-run strategy is to improve the balance of payments.

Q. How would this occur?

A. By effectively reducing the price of U.S. exports, the government hopes foreigners will buy more American goods. Forcing up the price of imports, on the other hand, is a not too subtle way of encouraging domestic consumers to "Buy American." The result should be a cutback in the flow of dollars overseas and a reduction in last year's record $6.4 billion balance of trade deficit.

Q. This was supposed to occur after the United States devalued the dollar about 8 per cent in December, 1971. What happened?

A. The trade deficit got worse instead of better. The experts disagree why.

Q. Will it work this time?
A. In theory, yes. But the administration has its fingers crossed.

Q. Can we expect another devaluation a year from now?

A. Until the major powers build a new monetary system, that can absorb the actions of speculators, there always will be the threat of a monetary crisis with the subsequent revaluation of currencies.

Incident at KHS... 'Vicious Backlash'

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON — That brief but volatile incident at Kingston High School on Nov. 15 may be long forgotten by some, but the vibrations are still very evident among the school administrators and Kingston's black community.

Twenty-six students were suspended, another six were arrested in the aftermath of an incident that began when some disgruntled black students boycotted classes, paraded through the halls, presented a list of grievances to school officials and then scuffled with police for a few tense moments that morning.

Since then, members of the black community, represented by the Kingston Human Relations Commission, have met regularly with the Board of Education to discuss what prompted the incident, and to institute changes that may help prevent more of the same. Rev. John A. Gilmore, director of the Human Relations Commission, issued a progress report on those talks at a press conference Tuesday.

The Rev. Mr. Gilmore's "briefing" included an ominous warning: that a "vicious backlash" against both black and white students at Kingston

High School has developed since the Nov. 15 incident. He refused to elaborate on particulars of the "backlash," but intimated that several students are involved; that it has not assumed major proportions yet; but could develop into a major crisis if allowed to continue unchecked.

The Rev. Mr. Gilmore again declined to reveal the full contents of that list of grievances drawn up by the black students, but conceded that the absence of a black guidance counselor at the school was one of the most important items. He said the Board of Education has agreed to search for a qualified black counselor and additional black teachers.

According to The Rev. Mr. Gilmore, the Board of Education and the Human Relations Commission are in near agreement on which grievances they believe to be justified. He said the school board has assumed a "new look" since the disturbance; has opened new lines of communication between students and staff and should be "commended for its willingness to deal with the problem."

But Tuesday's press conference also included a stinging indictment of the Kingston Police Department and high school administrators for the way the incident was ultimately handled. According to Everett Hodge, president of the local chapter of the NAACP, the charges against the six arrested students "are completely unwarranted" and added that he hopes all charges are eventually dropped.

Hodge said there was no disturbance at the school until police arrived. He said the scuffle ensued when police took the 32 students into custody, but wouldn't allow them to get their coats before going outside to the waiting police bus.

Hodge also took exception to reports that 40 policemen were called to the scene: "That's a physical impossibility," he said. "It gives the impression that the students were there to destroy property. There was no damage, no classes were interrupted," Hodge also charged that high school officials and the Board of Education consistently "rebuffed" the protesting students for two days prior to the incident, prompting them to dramatize their demands by marching through the hallways.

The tensions and hostilities many black students feel will continue, said The Rev. Mr. Gilmore, so the meetings will continue, as well. But there is a definite sense of urgency that they lead to quick and constructive changes.

Jack Anderson Says Used 'Copters Not Available

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of helicopters, most of them perfectly airworthy, have been consigned to the scrap heap at Davis-Montain Air Force Base in Tucson, Ariz., while law enforcement agencies around the country are paying through the nose for new police helicopters.

The police units, with few exceptions, haven't been able to cut through the red tape to acquire surplus military choppers. This is forcing them to buy new helicopters for $60,000 to $100,000 apiece when they could refurbish an old battle chopper for a few thousand dollars.

There is evidence, moreover, that the Federal Aviation Administration is cooperating with the big aircraft manufacturers to keep the bargain surplus helicopters out of police hands. Here's how they work it:

The FAA won't issue certificates of airworthiness for the surplus choppers unless the manufacturers issue new data plates. Bell Helicopter, for example, explains that it cannot determine without a total factory overhaul whether a chopper still meets Bell's specifications.

Bell won't risk damage claims, therefore, by issuing a data plate. Without this, the FAA won't certify the aircraft. And insurance companies won't grant reasonable liability rates without FAA certification.

Representative Ogden Reid, D-N.Y., has suggested in a private letter to FAA Administrator John Shafer that there is a simple solution. "I have checked with the services involved and have been assured," he wrote, "that the log history of each helicopter is readily available and that either the manufacturer or the FAA could easily determine whether the craft is airworthy from this and some personal inspection . . ."

Reid suggests suspiciously that FAA's refusal to issue the certificates "is based on a technicality which seems designed to protect the market for new helicopters rather than the public interest."

Conflict of Interest

An unpublished study exposes the cozy relationship between the Food and Drug Administration and the businesses it is supposed to oversee.

Such commercial giants as Swift and Company, Smith, Kline and French, and Libby, McNeil and Libby have been able to place top executives in watchdog posts inside the agency.

The study, by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, reveals that some 22 of the FDA's top 54 officials have held key positions in FDA-regulated industries or in front organizations which cater to these industries.

A typical case: Dr. Marion Finkel came from the large drug firm of Merck, Sharp and Dohme to become deputy director of the Bureau of Drugs. She acknowledged to us that she set to work in her new post reviewing four Merck drugs for marketing licenses. Three of the Merck drugs were subsequently approved.

Dr. Ogden Johnson, head of FDA's Division of Nutrition, came from A. E. Staley Manufacturing Co., an Illinois soy product producer, which is actively researching new soy food. At the FDA laboratories under Johnson's control, the FDA currently conducts tests on the nutritional value of soy meal and soy protein.

Other FDA officials intend to return to the drug and food industries when they leave the government. Typical is Dr. Virgil Wodicka, who formerly worked for Hunt-Wesson, Libby and Ralston Purina, but is now FDA's director of the Bureau of Foods. He has made no bones about his plans to return to the industry when his government service is completed. Even the most noble of men might avoid doing battle with a corporation which holds the purse strings to his later employment. Others more inclined to go to the well with big business might even be seduced by what FDA insiders call "the deferred bribe."

Intelligence Items

SECRET ATTACK

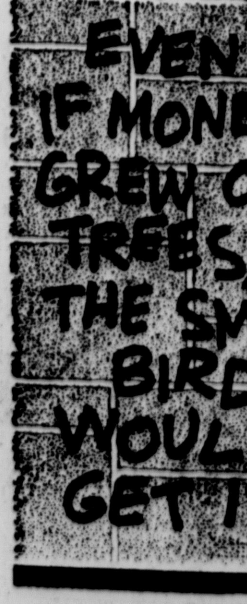

Pathet Lao troops, attacking in battalion strength a few days ago, overran a key U.S. intelligence outpost in the remote northeastern corner of Laos near the Burmese border. Knocked out by the attack was the Central Intelligence Agency's main intelligence base at Nam Yeu for operations into Communist China. Sabotage and reconnaissance teams, operating out of Nam Yeu, have been penetrating deep into China's southern Yunnan province. The teams stayed inside China for as long as four to six months, some penetrating as far north as Kunming. The clandestine reports were sent by lightweight sideband equipment to Nam Yeu for translation and relay to Vientienne, and on to CIA headquarters at McLean, Va.

SEA SAGA

Secret intelligence reports describe what was probably the last naval action of the Vietnam War. Four missile boats, each loaded with two deadly STYX missiles, slipped out of China and crept down the coastline, carefully staying in Chinese territorial waters until they reached some small North Vietnamese islands north of Haiphong. They tried to hide among the islands but failed to escape detection. On December 17, American A-7 fighter-bombers struck the boats in their hiding places, sinking one and damaging two. The fourth got away.

Big Stick Policy

There was a lot of headshaking when President Nixon announced his dropping of wage and price controls to be replaced by what now is known as Phase III.

The feeling was that the time was not propitious to change economic directions and that price hikes combined with labor demands would pave the way for the very inflationary trends that Phases I and II had been designed to check.

That trend still may develop. Some of the safeguards have been removed. But the President is utilizing a psychological ploy that another Republican President before him employed very effectively—the Big Stick. And it just might work.

It was trust-busting Theodore Roosevelt, our 26th President, whose belief in government's right to control business vastly increased the powers of the chief executive, who made the phrase famous.

Speaking in 1901 at a Minnesota State Fair, Mr. Roosevelt recalled a homely adage which runs: "Speak softly and carry a big stick: you will go far."

The President always felt that this nation had a direct interest and obligation to impose order in Latin America and his Minnesota speech was made in support of his plans to quietly go about the business of building and keeping at a pitch of the highest training a thoroughly efficient Navy.

It can't be said that President Nixon really is speaking softly because he has presented his economic views loudly and clearly, but he's backing them up with a Big Stick policy.

Mr. Nixon chose his words very carefully at ceremonies in which John T. Donlop was sworn in as the new director of the Cost of Living Council.

He spoke directly to his new aide but obviously his message was designed for the eyes and ears of everyone in the nation.

"There's a big stick in that closet," said the chief executive, pointing to a door in his White House office . . . "a very big stick. I will never hesitate to use it in our fight against higher prices and higher taxes."

Nothing could be more comforting to a man who admittedly is stepping into a highly sensitive position, especially when the President added, "When they get out of line, let me know."

The same kind of philosophy was demonstrated in another area at a hearing to determine whether the effort should be made to roll back oil prices.

Said Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, "The club is out of the closet and laid on the table." He told Senate questioners that he had been advised "by the very highest authority that the club would be used promptly and effectively."

Apparently there's more than one way to regulate the nation's economy and it is apparent that the White House is going to utilize every possible maneuver to establish economic stability. This should be reassuring to the wage earner and the small businessman, the categories in our social order who usually are the first to be caught in the squeeze.

Death of a Newspaperman

With the death of David Lawrence on February 11, the dispatch he wrote two days before for publication on Monday, February 12, was the last of around 15,000 he has written through the years, going back to 1916. His career as a Washington correspondent began in 1910 when he became a member of the Washington staff of The Associated Press. When he joined the old New York Evening Post Washington Bureau, his articles were the first to be syndicated nationally by wire. Until 1946, he wrote his regular dispatches six times a week, and then reduced the weekly total to five. During this entire period, he took one vacation of about two weeks. Otherwise, there has been no break in his regular production of commentaries—not even in 1968 when he was in the intensive heart-care unit in a Washington hospital for several days.

As editors of the papers which have carried his dispatch—many of them for years—know, he never took a stand because it was popular and often battled for what he called "lost causes." Ben McKelway, friend and longtime editor of the Washington Star, put it in these words at the ceremony at which David Lawrence was made a fellow of Sigma Delta Chi:

"Whatever he writes is a reflection of some deeply held conviction that he feels under real obligation to express. He has devoted his life to journalism—not merely as a means of livelihood, but as a cause in which he passionately believes."

That cause was freedom of the press and informing the public.

Martin F. Nolan

'Libido for the Ugly'

WASHINGTON —President Nixon is entitled to indulge in hortatory hyperbole as much as any preacher or football coach; sometimes it's worth trimming the truth.

"The people of this country are increasingly concerned — and properly so — with the physical appearance of their communities," he said last May 16. "There should be no doubt that the Federal government has an appropriate and critical role to play in encouraging better design."

The first part of the President's statement is open to dispute. Every new tucky-tacky subdivision, every old office building replaced by a brutal glass box, every new superhighway — all give evidence that Americans still cherish what H. L. Mencken called their "libido for the ugly."

But the second part of Mr. Nixon's statement is undeniable, especially since the President backed up his assertion by calling for an annual Federal Design Assembly, the first one convening here April 2 and 3.

"This will be the first time in the nation's history that the government, as the country's largest planner, builder, printer and landlord, will have recognized its responsibility to provide the nation with the best possible design environment," according to the assembly's sponsor, the Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities.

Graphics, postage stamps, mailboxes, new buildings — all too often have been planned with a fine mockery of the barest aesthetic standards. The Federal government itself is responsible for much of the aesthetic pollution in America.

The Nixon administration, which has already done more for the arts than any regime since Roosevelt, certainly wasn't responsible for some of the reigning architectural atrocities in Washington. The Pentagon was already here, as was the Rayburn Building on Capitol Hill and it was too late to do anything about the monstrosity that surpasses them both, the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, a giant marble garage overwhelming the Potomac.

In the latter days of the Johnson administration, somebody got religion and commissioned real architects to house two new cabinet agencies; Marcel Breuer, who designed a handsome home for the Housing and Urban Development Department, and Edward Durrell Stone, who built a less graceful office building nearby for the Department of Transportation.

The Federal Design Assembly here has some basic themes that ought to meet universal approval, simple dicta stating "that there are sound, proven criteria for judging design effectiveness . . . that design can save money . . . that design can save time . . . that design enhances communication."

All of these are true. Ask any successful businessman whether careful attention to design is not better for employee morale, customer relations and profit.

President Nixon himself deserves the praise of architects, designers and everyone who doesn't like eyesores. The key word in his message on the assembly idea was "annual." His chamberlain for the arts, Leonard Garment, professes not to know how that word got in the Presidential directive. But if the meeting is annual, all those people will have to come back each year to survey the damage they've done.

St. Valentine and His Day

St. Valentine's Day, which commemorates lovers to each other, is a custom dating back about 1600 years. Some of the lovely secret things which occur on St. Valentine's Day go back even further.

As a human emotion, the love of a man for a woman is impossible to divine, beset, as it is, with outrageous ecstasies and pits of pain. Sole and exclusive possession might be a lawyer's manner of describing love, but it involves much more than the cynic will concede, and much less than lovers observe in the vast depths of the starry sky. True love is as real as a warm breeze on cheeks, and as difficult to see. Those who least understand love spend the most time falling into it. Adolescents fall in love with love itself. Sadly, many of our ladies and gentlemen remain adolescent all their lives.

There are a few truisms about love. The more one demands of it the less one receives. The more one gives to love the more one receives. The lacy heart-shaped valentines and the roses are no more than momentary reminders of a life sentence.

The original St. Valentine had no notion that his name would be used as a promotion stunt for timid hearts. The hagiography of Valentine isn't much more than one might find on a tombstone. He was a Roman; he became a priest; he died in the year 269 A.D.

We know more about love in Rome than we do about Valentine. He lived in the reign of Claudius Gothicus, a Caesar with squinting eyes and a cleft in his chin. Claudius would rule only three years (268-270), but he acted with the ruthless authority of one who might live forever.

without this as a cornerstone, Rome would fall.

Thus, if Claudius Gothicus espoused the family, he must have been strong on love, because you can't have the one without the other. On the other hand, it must be confessed that Claudius was a strong anti-Lib dude.

He believed that the husband owned the family: the wife, the children, house, chariot, horses, money and idols. In addition, good old C. also proclaimed that any family head had the right to punish any member of his family — including death.

Still, love flourished with the right ingredients. Pliny had a buddy who wanted to find a husband for his daughter. Pliny found the right boy. "He has great energy as well as application, joined with a high degree of modesty. He has the look of a gentleman, fresh-colored and blooming, and a natural handsomeness in his whole build together with a certain senatorial grace." P.S. He was also rich.

The kid was in the betrothal ritual before he knew the time of day. A dowry was stipulated, and the bridegroom-to-be gave his fiancée a metal ring to be worn on the third finger of her hand, where a nerve was reputed to lead directly to the heart.

In some marriages, the wife could retain her own property on one condition. She had to absent herself from her spouse's bed three nights each year. To make it legal, of course, she had to tell the whole neighborhood.

On the wedding day, she wore a special tunic with a cord fastened about her waist in a "Hercules knot." Only the groom could untie it. After the wedding reception, she was carried over the threshold, but never by the bridegroom. Symbolically, this was done to keep her from stumbling — a bad omen. It also spared the groom a possible hernia.

The priest Valentine was brought before Claudius Gothicus in A.D. 269 and charged with being a Christian. Claudius wanted no part of such a dirty business, so he sent Valentine to the Prefect of Rome for judgment. It is said that the Prefect made all sorts of lavish promises to Valentine if he would put the wrap on his church in public.

Valentine declined. At the Porta Valentin, he was publicly flogged and beheaded. Thus the path to sainthood. The event occurred on February 14th, a day when it was believed that birds begin to mate. From this slender thread of romance, Valentine and true love were forever entwined.

And don't forget. He, too, lost his head. . .

"I'm sorry, Mr. Secretary, if we let YOU see him — EVERY Tom, Dick and Harry cabinet member would want to see him!"

Public Hearing Set on Rocky's Budget

Fiscal Leaders Propose Cuts

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Preliminary to today's public hearing on Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's proposed record budget for 1973-74, the heads of the legislature fiscal committees have recommended chopping $44 million from his requested $255-million deficiency budget for this fiscal year.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman John Marchi, R-Staten Island, and Assembly Ways and Means Committee Chairman Willis H. Stephens, R-Brewster, suggest making the savings by dropping two new programs from the deficiency plan—a mental hygiene and a day care center program.

The legislative leaders were scheduled to preside over the first public hearing today on Rockefeller's proposed $8.8-billion budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1.

The budget cutbacks were the major development of a generally quiet day at the Capitol Tuesday after the governor signed the no-fault automobile insurance bill.

Among the day's other developments, Rockefeller's get-tough policy on hard-drug pushers and legislation to guarantee pension vesting rights were discussed at legislative hearings.

Marchi and Stephens recommended deleting two sizeable programs from Rockefeller's deficiency budget—a $10-million aid program for New York City day-care centers and $15 million that had been earmarked to meet a deficiency in revenue from the Mental Hygiene Services Fund.

The day-care money, promised by Social Services Commissioner Abe Lavine when more than 1,000 persons demonstrated for state aid last month, would have helped keep the centers' fees down in the face of a new federal ceiling on social services spending.

The lawmakers said such new programs should be considered only in main operating budgets.

They said they were cutting the mental hygiene aid because a revised estimate showed no deficiency in the fund, which collects money from the families of patients to help meet the costs of mental health care.

They also cut $3 million from Rockefeller's requested $5 million for the state Council on the Arts and $8 million from the $50 million requested for sewerage-treatment projects.

The deficiency budget, still to be considered by the legislature, covers unforeseen expenses during the current fiscal year.

At a joint legislative hearing on Rockefeller's anti-drug program, a representative of Consumers Union urged that instead of taking harsher law-enforcement steps against pushers and addicts, the state should make methadone maintenance available to all and try heroin maintenance on an experimental basis.

Jonathan Leff said that tough penalties will not necessarily deter pushers and addicts: "Heroin is a drug most users go right on using despite the threat of imprisonment."

Rockefeller has proposed making life sentences mandatory for all hard-drug pushers and for persons convicted of violent crimes while under the influence of drugs.

Both business and labor representatives testifying at another legislative hearing, called for rejection of legislation that would give private-sector workers vested pension rights after 15 years—the right to receive pension benefits at retirement age even if they leave their jobs before that.

Spokesmen for both groups said they would prefer to await passage of federal legislation now being considered that would establish uniform standards for vesting and pension funding throughout the nation.

At a Tuesday news conference, Assembly Minority Leader Stanley Steingut presented a Democratic program for school financing that would raise state aid to school districts and, he said, relieve much of the taxpayers' burden.

The Brooklyn Democrat said the plan would cost $236 million in 1973-74, more than half of it in creating a "circuit breaker" tax system whereby the state would reimburse a taxpayer any local tax payments above 10 per cent of his income, as long as his annual taxable income is less than $16,000.

The minority program would also raise state aid per pupil from $860 to $1,050.

In other action Tuesday:

—Republican and Democratic legislative leaders and Rockefeller announced they had agreed on a June 4 primary election date for New York City, with runoffs June 26 if necessary.

—The governor proposed establishing a state Medical Care Facilities Finance Agency to speed up existing state loan programs for hospitals, nursing homes and other health facilities.

—The Senate passed two bills permitting the New York City Board of Education to redraw the lines of community school districts without public hearings and reducing the minimum school population in each of the city districts from 20,000 to 15,000 pupils.

Today's budget hearing deals with the $3.32-billion Local Assistance Fund budget, which provides state aid for such services as education and welfare. Marchi and Stephens' committees will conduct another hearing next Wednesday on the state purposes and capital

OPENS ASSEMBLY SESSION — Rev. David W. Arnold (C) pastor of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Woodstock, is flanked by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) and Assembly Speaker Perry B. Two Charged in Triple Homicide

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A young woman and her male companion will be brought from Detroit to Chautauque County to face murder charges in the rifle-slashing of her father, her step-mother and her step-sister, State Police said.

Troopers said Tuesday that Susan Hallett, 24, and Richard J. Parrish, 28, may be returned here within four or five days, should they choose to waive extradition proceedings.

Found slain in a Town of Busti home Monday were Miss Hallett's father, Robert W. Hallett, 49, a prominent business man; his wife, Grace, 39, and their daughter, Ann, 8.

The three had been shot in the back of the head with a high-powered rifle, troopers said. The bodies were discovered lying face down and shoulder to shoulder on the basement floor of the Halletts' ranch-style home.

Maj. Arnold L. Bardossi said

Miss Hallett and Parrish were arrested Tuesday by Detroit police who spotted the father's luxury automobile, reported missing in Busti, parked at a Detroit housing complex.

Bardossi said Parrish was arrested at his apartment and Miss Hallett was picked up later.

The major refusal to comment on reports that bags of money and a weapon had been found in the apartment Miss Hallett and Parrish shared.

As for reports the Busti home had been ransacked, Bardossi acknowledged the house had been found in "some disorder."

Speaking at a news conference, Bardossi declined to describe the slayings step by step. But, referring to the suspects, he said, "They both have been charged with murder.

That speaks for itself."

Detroit police held the pair on fugitive charges while awaiting murder-charge warrants issued by Busti Town Justice Ernest Levine.

Miss Hallett is the daughter of Hallett's first wife, Alice, who resides in Busti.

One neighbor of the Halletts recalled the daughter as being a "happy woman, very friendly, says what she thinks."

Canadian customs officials said they spotted Hallett's auto, bearing his personalized RWH-3 license plate, at the Buffalo Peace Bridge Monday night.

They said that when the car crossed into Fort Erie, Ont., its two occupants told an inspector they were going to Detroit.

Hallett, a onetime junk dealer, had built up a chain of discount stores which he reportedly had sold just last Friday for $250,000.

Neighbors said Hallett was known to keep large sums of money in his home for quick business transactions.

Tax Lien Forces Man To Lose Home

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — A 30-year-old chemical worker, who says he worked one full-time and two part-time jobs to finance a $15,000 home he built in 1968, has lost legal ownership of his home because of an unpaid $22 tax bill.

A quit claim deed to the home of the Alfred Bates family has been issued to a real estate speculator who purchased a tax certificate on the property in 1968, according to Rensselaer County treasurer Edward W. Pattison.

The situation has prompted the Albany County Board of Realtors to mount a campaign to repeal state law allowing a speculator to lay a legal claim to property with a tax lien on the title.

Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo also announced his office is probing the transaction for possible violations of the law.

Bates, whose wife is pregnant with their third child, said he was not aware of the $22 tax lien on his property near Scho-dack Landing until the deed was issued.

"Do you think I would have built all this, spent all this money, if I had known I owed $20 in back taxes?" Bates asked.

He said he learned of his loss of title from a bank official investigating his application for a mortgage.

Queens Slaying... Robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — Police searched through shrubbery and questioned neighbors late Tuesday night in search of clues to the brutal murder of the 26-year-old wife of a Forest Hills, Queens doctor.

The badly beaten body of Madeline DeFilippi was discovered in a pool of blood on her kitchen floor Tuesday evening. The couple's five-month-old son was found unharmed in a ransacked bedroom.

The police said she had been killed in an apparent robbery attempt. Her hands were tied together in front of her. An autopsy was to be performed at Queens General Hospital.

Dr. Joseph DeFilippi, 32, and his wife had lived in the two-family home in the upper-middle class neighborhood since early last fall. Dr. DeFilippi is a urologist at Roosevelt Hospital.

Their landlord, Stanley Jeffrey, discovered the body after receiving a call from the woman's parents, who said they had been trying to reach their daughter by telephone all day without success.

Police said Jeffrey used a pass key to get into the apartment, where he found the body on the floor and the telephone off the hook.

Police said the husband had been due to return home from the hospital Monday night but had worked overtime and did not go home until he was notified of the death of his wife.

Fire Damages House

RIFTON, N.Y. — A fire that apparently began in a kitchen stove did heavy damage Tuesday afternoon to an old stone house just west of Route 32 near the Route 213 intersection in Rifton.

A neighbor who spotted smoke coming from the home called Tillson firemen. Chief Cliff Van Nostrand and a crew of volunteers went to the scene and found the house fully involved in flames. They relayed a call to Rifton firemen when they learned that the fire was in the Rifton district.

Chief Philip Stokes and Rifton firemen went to the scene with a pumper and tanker and joined Tillson firemen in halting the blaze.

Stokes said the owners, who have not been determined, were away when the alarm was turned in at 2:45 p.m. The kitchen stove apparently overheated and spread fire into the kitchen walls.

The two-story house, built in the 18th century, was furnished with antique furniture and accessories, many of which were damaged by heat and smoke. An estimate of the total loss will have to await an inventory by the owners, firemen said. Firemen were at the scene until 4 p.m.

Adding to the damage was water which spilled from copper plumbing when heat from the fire melted solder joints in the kitchen area, firemen said.

Meanwhile, about 50 firemen of the J. H. Ketcham Hose Company of Dover and Wingdale in Dutchess County responded under Chief Frank W. Kelly with four pieces of apparatus at 2:45 a.m. today when a neighbor noticed smoke and flames coming from a two-story 14 room house in Wingdale.

The house, owned by the Greater New York Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, was unoccupied and was being used for storage, Kelly said.

Former Officer Pleads Guilty To One Charge

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Anthony Paonessa, one of 16 present or former Newburgh police officers indicted last year, pleaded guilty to one of three charges Tuesday in State Supreme Court.

Paonessa, a 35-year-old suspended police lieutenant, was the 13th of the 16 persons indicted in the case to plead guilty as a result of the investigation by a special Orange County grand jury.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of petit larceny. Justice George Beisheim Jr. set March 2 for sentencing. Paonessa faces a maximum penalty of one year in jail on the misdemeanor.

He was named in two indictments on charges of petit larceny, third degree grand larceny and tampering with physical evidence. The indictments accused him of stealing money recovered in a gambling raid in 1970 and of stealing an undisclosed sum of money from two suspects, authorities said.

The guilty plea came as the former police traffic commander was slated to go on trial. All the cases were transferred here as a result of defense motion concerning pre-trial publicity in the Newburgh area.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped back today amid signs of new investor uncertainty about the international monetary situation.

Analysts said the U.S. dollar devaluation was being viewed as a positive step, but not necessarily a cure-all, in the monetary crisis. In addition, the climb in stock prices of the previous three days was prompting a downward correction, some said.

Jordan Blaze Claims Five

JORDAN, N.Y. (UPI) — Five persons perished early today in a house fire in this western Onondaga County village.

The county's fire control office confirmed the toll.

Names of the victims were withheld pending completion of identification.

At least one victim was a child, according to the sheriff's office.

One report said a neighbor saw flames coming from the house and tried to awaken the occupants, but was unable to do so.

Judge Beck Explains L&M Ruling

KINGSTON
The owners of L&M Auto Parts at 222 East Strand will be back in court on Thursday and this time Special City Judge George A. Beck wants not only the completion of previously stipulated work on the East Strand side of the junkyard and the north side of it, but also a firm date for completion of fencing on the creek side of the yard and on the south side which fronts on property owned by the Miron Corp.

Last Thursday Judge Beck found the two owners, Marvin Schildhorn and Lawrence Gersh, in contempt of court for failing, in Beck's opinion, to complete work previously stipulated on the north side of the yard and on the street side. He fined the firm $250 and said that if work still wasn't completed by this Thursday's court appearance that subsequent fines would be "at least $250."

Schildhorn, vice president of the firm, claimed that all court ordered work had been completed, and that Beck's decision last Thursday was unwarranted.

Beck, contacted by The Freeman this week, said he found L&M in contempt for three specific reasons: "There were wooden fence posts sticking up above the fence and they were unpainted; there was a junk car visible above the fence line, an eyesore and the north side wasn't touched at all," Beck told The Freeman. Beck also said that he had notified L&M's attorney, Thomas J. Plunket, by letter, of his observations on Tuesday, two days before last Thursday's court decision.

And Beck says, "this thing has dragged on long enough." Records in the building inspector's office show that L&M took out a building permit to build a 10-foot opaque fence with boarded wire across the top on Aug. 17, 1972. The building permit stated that the work would be done by Sept. 17, 1972.

Schildhorn also maintains that his firm is being singled out for violations while other "eyesores" in the city are ignored. "This is a question of enforcement on the part of the building inspector" (George E. Radcliffe), Beck said. "If he (Radcliffe) comes in (to court) with any of them the complaint gets heard and the work gets done. If people have complaints they should take them to the building inspector."

Thursday's case will be heard at 9 a.m.

Health Secretary Sets Supplementary Premium

KINGSTON security office has announced that the supplementary medical of Medicare by helping to pay as well as for people eligible for the new premium rate also takes account of legislative changes in the Medicare program enacted in 1972. These include a change from $50 to $60 in the annual deductible and beginning July 1, 1973, coverage of certain chiropractors' services, speech pathologists' services, and the elimination of the home health agency co-payment.

George J. Habernig, district that Secretary of Health, Education and the supplementary medical in July 1, a $50 per month in insurance program complements the basic hospital insurance part of Medicare at a rate over the current level.

Habernig said that the Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the supplementary medical insurance program and that the Secretary set a premium rate at a point estimated to be sufficient, together with the Federal contribution, to cover all expenditures during the following premium period.

Most of the anticipated increase in the cost of the program is attributable to continuing increase in the use of physicians' services, the trend toward more expensive services, and an increase in the cost and use of hospital outpatient services.

Approximately 22.5 million persons will be enrolled in the program in the coming fiscal year, including 1.7 million disabled persons under age 65 who are newly covered by recent legislation.

In addition, Medicare protection is extended to people who need certain treatment for chronic kidney disease. This protection is for workers insured under social security, for their wives or husbands and children.

UCCC Drafting Grads...Job Increase Seen

STONE RIDGE are again moving upward." He reported that drafting is a very challenging career in industry, with a knowledgeable draftsman giving permanent shape to the ideas of an engineer or designer.

Drafting graduates from Ulster County Community College have had no difficulty gaining employment and the demand for these graduates is expected to increase sharply in the years ahead, according to Professor Walter Hopkins, chairman of the Department of Engineering Technologies at the College.

He reported that graduates of the one-year diploma program at UCCC have gained employment with General Electric, Graphic Techniques, Mid-Hudson Automated Sprinkler Co., Hucktrol Inc., and Knoll Atomic Energy Plant, to list just some of the employers.

"Our graduates have done very well in their jobs," said Professor Hopkins, "and we expect the demand for them to increase as engineering projects completes this sophisticated program. The success of one year's hard work can be measured by the comments of Albert Simidian, president of Graphic Techniques in Kingston.

"I am extremely pleased with the preparation of the graduates," he says, "and I feel that they are capable of entering the industry with minimum preparation on the employer's part."

Students also are exposed to part.

Piano Instructor Attends Conference

Mrs. Barbara Zimet, who will teach a credit-free course in Music and Piano being offered this spring by Ulster County Community College, recently attended a three-day conference in Chicago of master teachers appointed by the National Piano Foundation.

More than 60 music and piano teachers from 26 states and Canada attended the conference conducted by Dr. Robert Pace, head of piano instruction at Columbia University's Teachers College, and educational director of the National Piano Foundation.

Each of the participating master teachers has been appointed by NPF because of expertise in teaching Contemporary Group Piano, a unique approach to music instruction pioneered by Dr. Pace. This method, in which basic music concepts are taught simultaneously with the technical aspects of playing, has been acclaimed for its remarkably low drop-out rate and speed with which students learn music.

Mrs. Zimet, of Woodstock, will utilize this technique in her UCCS course which will meet on 10 Thursday evenings at the Stone Ridge campus starting March 8. March 1 is the deadline for registration. Further information about this and other credit-free courses can be obtained by calling the Continuing Education office at the College.

Woodstock Ladies' Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary to Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 will sponsor a fund raising Penny Social on Saturday, Feb. 17 in the Woodstock Town Hall from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Awards will be presented and refreshments served. Public is invited.

Advice from a Furrier

A long CAPE is a most unusual garment if it is made of fine MINK pelts that are cut right and sewn right. For that cape is both WARMER than a COAT for COLD weather wear — and COOLER than a coat for but CHILLY weather wear. These capes are made different than any you have ever seen. They have a SILK cape inside of the FUR. With your arms inside, the body heat is kept in. With your arms outside, the body heat escapes... An original style

Debra Reis Is Bride of Myron Jacob

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reis of Connelly announce the marriage of their daughter, Debra, to Myron Jacob, Ulster Trailer Park, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jacob, Cissna Park, Ill. The Rev. Joseph Mc-

Donough CSSR officiated at the double ring ceremony at Presentation Church in Port Ewen, on Saturday, Jan. 27.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an A-line gown of satin brocade accented with chiffon sleeves with Bishop cuffs and pearl buttons. A headpiece trimmed with seed pearls held her Venice lace veil and she carried an elegant cascade of pink roses and Stephanotis.

Darlene Reis of Connelly was maid of honor for her sister in an A-line gown styled with a mint green skirt and moss green bodice accented with floral trim at the neckline and waist. A green satin and velvet petal headpiece held her chiffon veil and she carried three long stemmed red roses.

Mrs. Charles Fisher of Saugerties was an attendant.

Her gown and headpiece were identical in styling to the honor attendant's and she carried three long-stemmed pink roses.

Joseph O'Brien of Connelly was best man. Ushers were Martin Reis, Connelly, brother of the bride; Michael Morton, Illinois, and Jack Trapp of New Jersey.

A reception was given at Ulster Hose Company No. 5, Albany Avenue, Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed at Pietro's Beauty Salon in Kingston.

Her husband, an alumnus of Cissna Park High School, Cissna Park, Ill., is employed by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp.

After a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Jacob will reside at Ulster Trailer Park, Kingston.

By ELIZABETH L. POST
© 1973, Emily Post Institute, Inc.
Dear Mrs. Post:

I just finished reading your column in the morning paper, and my Italian resentment at your advice forces me to voice my opinion. Whoever heard of spaghetti being a cheap food? Whenever I serve Italian food to my guests, or even to my family, it is never an inexpensive meal. The time and money that it takes to prepare a quality meal of my kind of spaghetti would put it in a gourmet class. Perhaps the husband in question knows what kind of spaghetti his wife prepares, and that is why he would be embarrassed to have her serve it. My Italian friends and I serve it with pride, and not because it is cheap.

Print this if you dare, so all the good cooks of the world will not feel guilty whenever they serve that simple old spaghetti that you refer to. I want to frame it so my friends can see it when they come to dinner.

MRS. S.

Dear Mrs. S.:
Of course I dare print it — but I'm going to argue with you a little. Well-prepared spaghetti with homemade sauce is a superb dish — one of my family's favorites. However, unless you grind up pure flet mignon as the meat, it is less expensive to serve than many dishes, such as sirloin steak, rib roast, etc. There are many less expensive dishes, too, which can also be delicious, but the letter you refer to happens to mention spaghetti specifically. In any case, I certainly do agree with you that a good spaghetti is a meal that should be served with pride — whatever the cost!

Dear Mrs. Post:

My friends and I have been wondering about this question. It must happen, I am sure, to many other teenagers. When you go to a restaurant with your parents and they see someone they know there, what do you do? Do you sit down at your own table, or do you go with them to say "Hello" to their friends?

JUDY

Dear Judy:
If you are just entering the restaurant, you should go along with your parents to say "Hello" to their friends. If they chat for a long time, you may say "If you'll excuse me, Mom, I'll find you a table." If you all sit down at your table first, and then your parents get up to speak to friends, you should remain at the table.

Whether you are a teenager or a parent with young people in the family, you will find the suggestions in my booklet "Etiquette Tips for Teenagers" helpful and useful. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

It's Valentine's Day!

"BE MINE" — No matter what the age Valentine's Day seems to bring out the best in all of us. Two pupils in Grade 1 of the Kingston Catholic Primary School look just about ready to exchange the day's greetings. Jerry Augustine holds the Valentine he's chosen to give to Teresa Redmond. The pupils at the school also observed Valentine's Day with a special liturgy celebrated in St. Peter's Church by the Rev. David Hickey. Friendship being the theme of the Mass, the children made valentines and at the offertory of the Mass, the valentines were placed on a "Friendship Tree" as everyone expressed thanks for the gift of friends. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Sentiments Unchanged

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Sentiment doesn't change. Only the method of expressing it changes.

Check the 1973 crop of Valentines and you'll find many as mushy as those our ancestors were sending nearly 100 years ago.

Consider this missive this year "To My Darling" — "There's no one so sweet, There's no one so dear, No wonder I love you Every day of the year. Love on Valentines' Day."

One 1973 card covered with hearts and flowers for a "Sweetheart" says on the cover, "Love is a separate language." Inside, on one fold, the sender says "... With just a look, a word, a kiss to let you know I care — for Love's a separate language that only two hearts share."

Then to reinsure the message, the sender quotes from Shakespeare's "Hamlet": "Doubt thou the stars are fire; Doubt that the sun doth move; Doubt truth to be a liar; But never doubt I love."

More with it today is a missive which says on the cover simply, "Love is now."

Those planning to attend should contact Mrs. Robert Jack, Milan Hollow Road, Rhinebeck. Cancellation deadline is Monday, Feb. 19.

Hair Situation No Problem

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune.
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

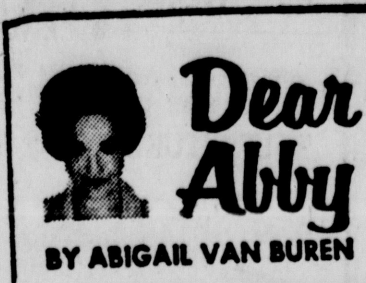

DEAR ABBY: I am a young guy 20 years old and I will be inducted into the Army soon. This is fine with me as I always wanted to be a soldier, but I have a problem. All my hair fell out about a year ago and I wear a hairpiece. It is a really good one (I paid $580 for it and it is custom-made for me) and I almost never take it off. I go swimming in it, play football, and even hockey in it. I am worried about what the Army will do to me if I refuse to take it off. Abby, I don't need anyone to laugh at me. Maybe I am nuts for feeling that way about it, but I honestly don't have any hair on my head at all. Why it fell out, I don't know. It just did. My dad was bald at my age, too, so it could be hereditary. Anyway, I am not asking to be a long-haired guy because I know the Army doesn't go for that, but if they try to make me take it off they will need six guys to knock me out as it would destroy me emotionally to go around baldheaded.

Please hurry you answer, and thanks for your time.

UPTIGHT

DEAR UPTIGHT: You're lucky it's the Army because they allow men to wear hairpieces, cut to regulation length, even in training. The Marine Corps shaves all heads for the 12-week training period, so you'd be baldheaded for the first three months whether you like it or not.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to meet a lady between 25 and 35 years old who is mentally okay but has some kind of physical handicap. I mean someone who maybe has one arm or leg. I wouldn't even mind a person who is deaf and can't talk, but I would like one who can see.

Dear Abby

I am mentally and physically okay myself and could return as much love as she could give me, and I feel that a handicapped woman would appreciate a good, sober, hard-working bachelor more. I live alone on a ranch, but please don't publish my name.

LONELY AND LOOKING

DEAR LOOKING: The National Society for Crippled Children and Adults (some agencies are known as the Easter Seal Society) have clubs where handicapped men and women socialize. Also, Goodwill Industries who employ the handicapped may be able to help you. I suggest that you apply in person and bring current character references along. You sound sincere, and I wish you luck, but I urge you to be very, very careful.

DEAR ABBY: About girls who wear glasses: When I was in college (Radcliffe, '40) we used to say:

"Men don't mind the glasses
If you have the chassis."

JEAN V. OWENS
Bethlehem, Pa.

DEAR JEAN: Cute. But you were topped by Mr. J. J. Conlon who wrote:

"Men who seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses are asses."

FATHER OF A BEAUTY,
N. Y. C.

DEAR ABBY: My son is getting married soon. The bride's mother does not like my son because he has long hair and a beard and he refuses to cut it for the wedding.

In order to punish my son, she has planned the following type of wedding: Just the parents of the bride and groom and the brothers and sisters on both sides. No other relatives and absolutely no outside friends.

After the wedding there is going to be a sit-down dinner. No music or dancing. Not even a small reception. She has informed me that SHE is going to wear a long dress.

What I want to know is this: Do I have to wear a long dress? And does my husband have to rent a tux? I hate to put out all that money just to sit down and eat a meal.

WEST TEXAS

DEAR WEST: Wear whatever you want, and tell your husband to do the same. (P.S. Perhaps SHE's wearing a long dress to conceal the broom she uses for transportation.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HEART VS. HEAD" IN SAN ANGELO, TEXAS: I vote on the head. Use yours and tell him to get out of your life and stay out. A man who can be engaged to three girls at one time has a long line and a short memory.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:07 a.m. WKNY-1490)

Seafood or fish chowders are traditional favorites in coastal areas. Inlanders also appreciate the heartiness of a good chowder during winter months, now available because of fast-freezing techniques with salt-water fish. Supermarkets today in all parts of the country have frozen fish fillets that go well in a chowder. Serve with a salad, heart homemade bread and perhaps an apple pie.

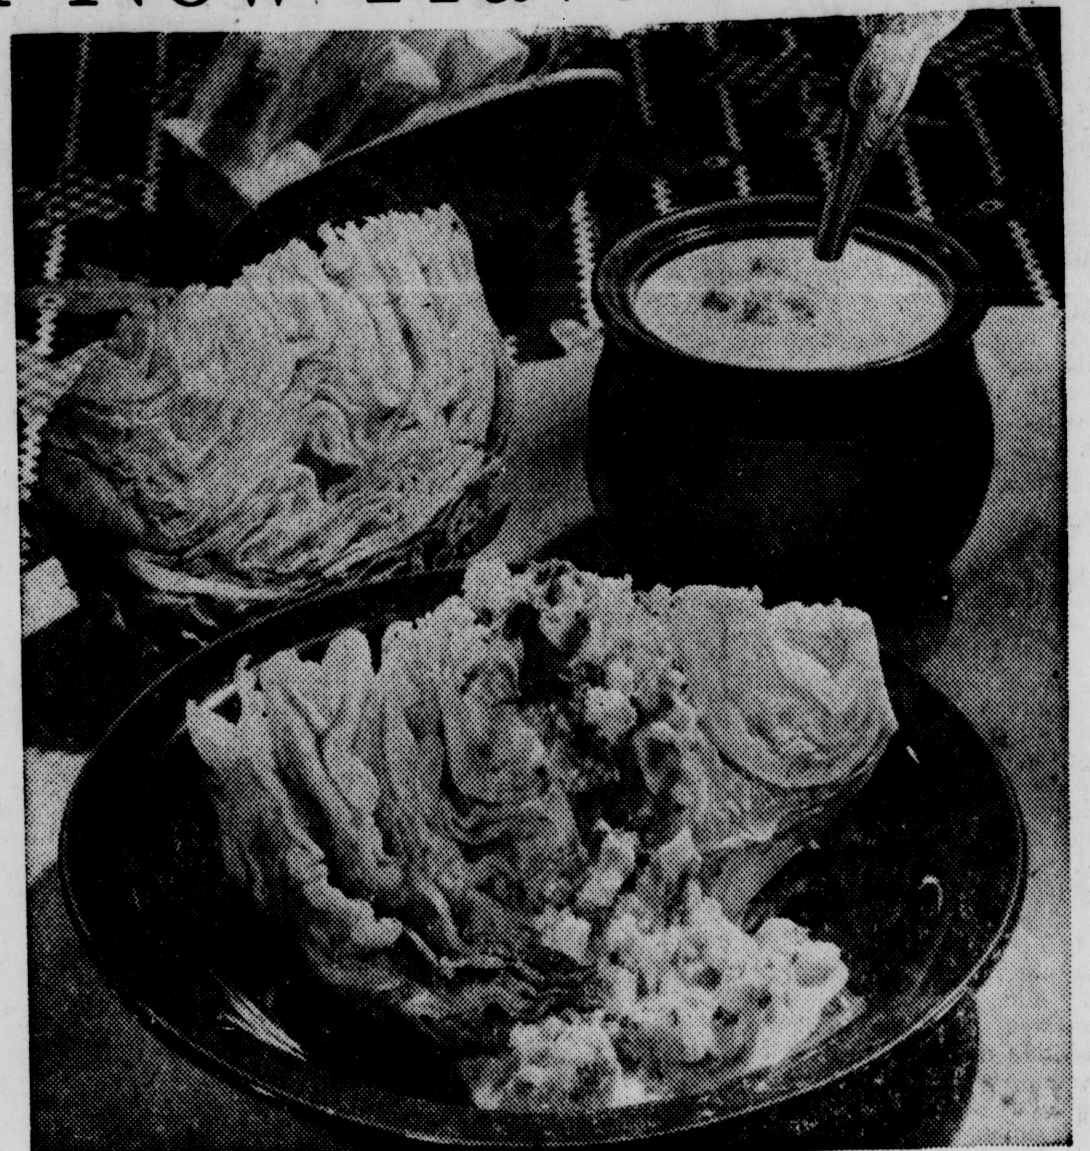

New England Fish Chowder

Three tablespoons butter or margarine

Two cups sliced onions
Three cups diced potatoes
One cup diced carrots
One and a half cups water
Two tablespoons Worcestershire sauce.
One teaspoon salt
One and a half pounds haddock or other firm fleshed fillet, cut into two-inch chunks
One and one half cups milk
One-half cup heavy cream
One-fourth cup chopped parsley

In large saucepan heat butter. Add onions and saute two or three minutes until softened. Stir in potatoes, carrots, water, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Bring to boiling point. Reduce heat. Cover and simmer one-half hour or until vegetables are tender. Stir in fish, then milk. Cover and let simmer very gently 15 minutes or more or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. In small bowl combine cream with two tablespoons of hot chowder then stir cream mixture into chowder. Reheat gently but do not boil. Stir in chopped parsley. Makes four to six portions.

FISH CHOWDER is welcome, hearty dish no matter the regional climate.

Cookies for Snacking, Nutrition

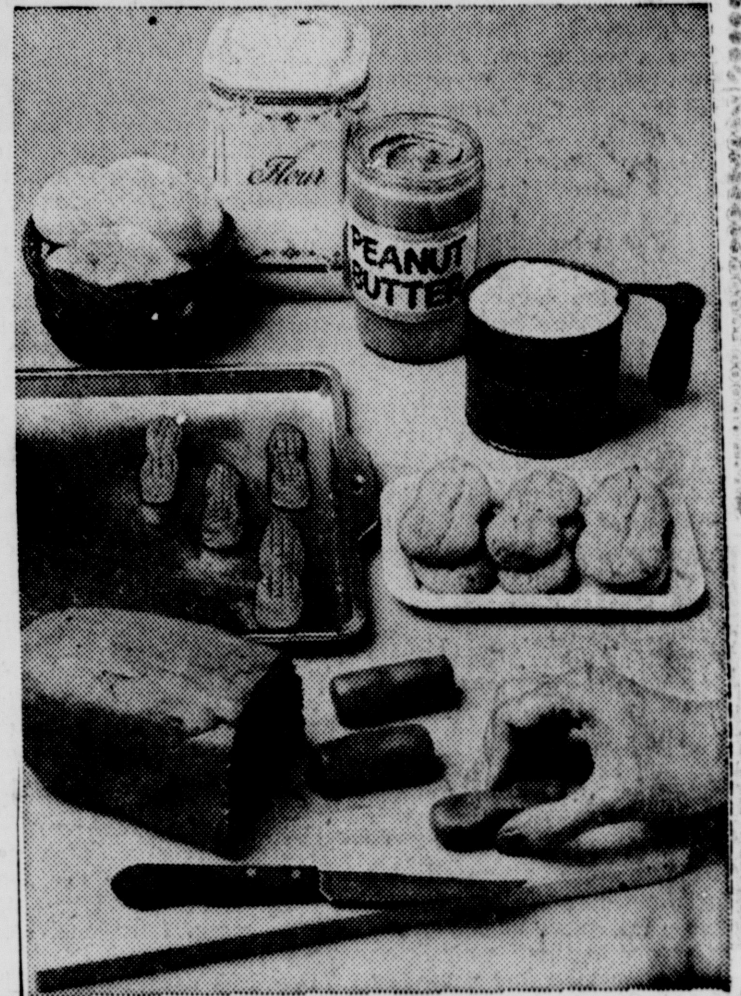

Peanut-Shaped Cookies

One-half cup (one stick) margarine
Two-thirds cup peanut butter
One cup sugar

One egg
Two cups sifted all-purpose flour
One-half teaspoon baking powder
One teaspoon baking soda
One-fourth teaspoon salt
Grated rind of one orange or one teaspoon dried orange rind

Cream margarine and peanut butter. Stir in sugar and egg. Beat in remaining ingredients. Knead dough a few times on floured board. Cut dough into 40 pieces. Shape each piece with the hands into a roll two and one-half inches long. Pinch in the center of the roll and place on a cookie sheet. Flatten top of cookie and round one end. Pinch the other end to resemble the shape of the peanut in the shell. With the back of a knife cut shallow crisscross line on top of cookie. Cookies should be at least two inches apart since they spread during baking. Bake in a pre-heated 375-degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 40 cookies.

Angelicum Orchestra Here Feb. 19

One of the most exciting attractions of the musical season will be presented at the Community Theater, Monday evening, Feb. 19, when the Angelicum Orchestra of Milan appears here for the membership of the Community Concert Association.

The local association has always brought to the Hudson Valley the finest professional talent that is available, and the fact that this renowned orchestra will be performing in Kingston on its initial tour of the United States, truly is a magnificent accomplishment for this organization that has been such a vital force in influencing the cultural life of this area.

The Angelicum Orchestra was founded in 1941 for the purpose of encouraging a wider knowledge of Italian and foreign musical masterpieces, with particular emphasis upon sacred music. Currently, the group numbers about 30 members, all professional musicians, from the finest Italian conservatories. Bruno Martinotti has been the conductor of the group since 1967, and for eight years prior to that time Maestro Carlo Felice Cillario led the group. They have had numerous guest conductors over the years including the celebrated Antonio Janigra.

The orchestra gives weekly concerts in its own hall, the Sala del Angelicum, and spends a great deal of time on tour as well. Over the past twenty years they have toured Germany, Spain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Brazil and have toured their own country as well. They have appeared at such important festivals as those of Berlin, Weisbaden, and the Gulbenkian Festival in Portugal.

This outstanding orchestra was the first orchestra in Italy to present to modern audiences many revivals of works which had long been forgotten. Included among these works are the oratorios of Carissimi, Stradella and Scarlatti; the Psalms of Marcello; the only surviving opera of Scarlatti, "Tetide in Sciro"; music of the eighteenth century, Handel's and Mozart's compositions, etc. In addition to these major works the Angelicum presents numerous oratorios, masses, sacred cantatas, symphonies, and familiar, rare or unknown instrumental compositions, for the purpose of making past treasures better known. The Angelicum also give strong encouragement to contemporary composers. During their Brazilian tour, they introduced the works of the leading Italian composers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, which were quite enthusiastically received by an audience in Paris, France.

Since 1960 the Angelicum orchestra has been offering a series of organ concerts performed by the best

European organists. All concerts have been presented in the Sala del Angelicum.

Bruno Martinotti, brilliant young conductor, a graduate of the famed Giuseppe Verdi Conservatory, was for 11 years, the first flutist with the RAI Symphony Orchestra of Milan, at the same time engaging in concert and chamber activities with the most important Italian groups. Since 1963 he has devoted himself exclusively to orchestral conducting. In 1964 he won First Prize in the International Competition in orchestral conducting.

As a result, he has soared into prominence, and has been requested to conduct such important orchestras as the Orchestra of Santa Cecilia of Rome, the RAI Orchestra, Teatro Fenice Orchestra of Venice, the Budapest Philharmonic.

Bard Dean Back From India... Participated in Cultural Seminar

Dean Carl M. Selinger of Bard College has returned to campus after eight weeks in India, where he participated in a seminar and explored the possibilities of cultural exchange.

The seminar was sponsored by the Central States College Educational Foundation in India under a grant from the U.S. Office of Education.

He was one of 20 academic deans selected from colleges throughout the country to participate in the program.

Mrs. Selinger, a teacher in the Red Hook school system, joined the group for three weeks during his stay.

During his stay, Dean Selinger was guest lecturer for several groups. He taught law and political science classes at Poona University where the group spent its first two weeks in intensive orientation sessions, and spoke on "Indian-American Relations" for the Poona branch of the Indian Council on World Affairs.

In an address to the Bombay Bar Association he spoke on the American experience in making legal aid available to poorer elements in our society. The address was arranged by the Indian Law Institute.

After orientation programs the group traveled throughout the country visiting historic sites, seeing recent developments in industry and Indian speakers and cultural agriculture, meeting with exchange groups coming to this country, and government area.

In speaking to The Freeman, Dean Selinger said that any system of higher education is quite different from ours.

There have been some poor examples in India, he continued, of American students wandering around the country, imposing themselves on the people and, in some cases, getting into trouble with narcotics.

"We might be able to work something out through the Gandhi Peace Foundation," he said.

They were guests of India's President V. V. Giri at a reception in the Presidential Palace in New Delhi and had to be arranged in the opportunity to meet with several other interested colleges and Mother Teresa, Superior General of the Missionaries of Charity, whose mission work has made her a living legend.

During his visit Dr. Selinger explored possibilities of Bard within a matter of weeks. There are serious problems in year's work and study, and of sending American students to TORO SCULPTURE TO DCC — Dean Robert McKinney of Dutchess Community College views "Toro," a bronze sculpture by Orvelo Wood recently donated to the college permanent collection by George Bashlow. Wood has achieved a national reputation through his unusual use of discarded industrial metals and "junk" to reflect living beings as they might be interpreted in a limited technical and mechanistic society. The sculpture had a one-man show at Dutchess. David Lax of the Art Department (R) received the sculpture.

Drug Forum Is Planned

POUGHKEEPSIE Area residents will have an opportunity to air their views to their state legislators regarding Governor Rockefeller's proposals for dealing with drug traffickers March 1.

The Law Enforcement Committee of the Dutchess County Youth Board is planning a public forum to discuss the pros and cons of these proposals, which include life imprisonment without possibility of parole for drug pushers.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Board of Representatives meeting room, sixth floor of the County Office Building, 22 Market Street, Poughkeepsie.

Featured speakers at the meeting will be Dutchess County's four state legislators: Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. and Assemblymen Emeel S. Betros, Benjamin P. Roosa Jr. and Willis H. Stephens.

In the dialogue to follow their positional statements, the public may make its positions known. Another panel will serve as reactors to the legislators' comments, in addition to presenting their own views.

Serving on that panel will be Richard Wager, managing editor of The Poughkeepsie Journal; Albert Rosenblatt, Dutchess County district attorney and Dr. Alban Coghlan, medical director of the Holy Cross residential facility for young drug addicts in Rhinecliff.

Co-chairmen of the Law Enforcement Committee are Mrs. Jean Murphy, county representative from the Town of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. Frederica Goodman, Youth Board member.

Steuben Unit Sets Installation

KINGSTON The regular monthly meeting of the Johann C. Weiser Unit is being held at the Maennerchor Hall, 37 Greenkill Avenue, Thursday at 8 p.m.

The newly elected officers for 1973 will be installed by the president of the National Council of the Steuben Society for New York City, Edward J. Sussman.

The Kingston Unit is about 30 members strong and would like to increase its membership. If anyone is interested in joining and is an American citizen of Germanic origin, may attend the meeting.

The successful Ulster County Oktoberfest which was held last year in September at the Kingston Armory was initiated and sponsored in part by the Unit. Plans for this year's event are being made with the help of the Unit's members, and the Oktoberfest Committee.

Other activities scheduled include communications to local, State, and Federal Representatives.

Coffee and cake will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Credit Change at Ellenville High

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE—The Ellenville Board of Education gave preliminary approval to the changing of the number of credits needed for graduation from Ellenville High School, with credit given for physical education, at its meeting Tuesday night.

Beginning next year, Ellenville High School seniors will need 18 credits plus physical education credits for a Regents diploma, and 16 credits plus physical education credits for a local school diploma.

The final form of the new diploma will be submitted to the board at its March meeting by High School Principal Robert Bullock.

The present district policy is 18 credits for both of the diplomas, with no credit given for physical education. Bullock said the 18 credits for a local diploma imposed a hardship on BOCES students, who were often hard pressed to get all 18 credits in; physical education chairman David Frank said the lack of credit for physical education made it hard to enforce participation in the program.

When it is fully in effect, graduating Ellenville students will need credit for four years of physical education. Next year's seniors will only need credit for their final year of physical education.

The Ellenville district presently has some trouble getting students to fully participate in the physical education program because no credit toward graduation is given. Bullock said the new requirements would "put teeth into the program."

Superintendent of Schools Thomas J. Hayden was saved from some embarrassment by a revote on a personnel appointment.

Jack Quinn was appointed administrative assistant at the beginning of the school year, with duties in negotiations, Federal program seeking, public relations, and other fields. He was a teacher in the district's CORE program, and was to be gradually phased out of the teaching and into administration.

Hayden hired John Stoothoff to take Quinn's place in January, and sought board confirmation of the appointment Tuesday night. It was at first denied by a 4-4 vote of the board members present. The board members voting against it indicated they remembered Hayden said no more people would have to be hired because of Quinn's appointment.

Hayden said he had not meant to give that impression, since Quinn was to be moved out of teaching and someone would have to replace him. He maintained that he was just filling a budgeted place on the school staff, and that actually about $9,000 had been saved by Quinn filling two places for half a year.

He said if the denial stood, he would have to fire Stoothoff and put Quinn back in the CORE class, jeopardizing the receipt of Federal funds and taking him out of the negotiating picture. Quinn was negotiating with the non-teaching staff members.

The revote showed six for approving Stoothoff, none against, and Mrs. Sonia Olsen abstaining. Board member Jack Siegel had left between the two votes.

Board member Morris Posner said he was afraid for the safety of the school children presently in the district's four outlying classroom locations because of fire and recommended abandoning all of them.

This may be done if the district goes on split session for next year, and action on this may be taken at the March board meeting, according to board president Eugene Houck.

HAIL AND FAREWELL—Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of Kingston City Schools Consolidated, is shown congratulating Mrs. Rosemary Jones, who recently retired after serving for 31 years as secretary to the Superintendent of Schools. Mrs. Jones will continue serving as secretary to the Board of Education until Dec. 31, 1973. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Tivoli Acres Buyer Found

TIVOLI

The Village of Tivoli has found a buyer for its remaining 40 acres of Tivoli Acres, a section zoned for residential development.

The notice from real estate saleswoman Mary DiFalco of Elizaville to the village board said that the developer would be willing to place a deposit of $1,500 on the property and deliver the balance of $80,000 within 80 days.

The village last year sold 50 acres of the 90-acre parcel it had taken over on back taxes several years ago. A half-dozen houses have been erected on the "Meadowcrest" subdivision.

The buyer for the remaining 40 acres must allow at least 15,000 square feet per dwelling. Thus, on the 40 acres the most houses that could be placed would be about 80, allowing space for roads and open space. Some apartments and townhouses are projected.

The village board decided to purchase a fire communications system with sirens and seven receivers.

The board received a $10,000 bond from Kingston Cablevision assuring hookups in the village by June. The village has already given the company an extension on its projected time table.

BOCEVILLE—The Ontario Board of Education approved a resolution Monday night urging the New York State Legislature to increase the state-aid-for-schools formula to help relieve some of the burden on local taxpayers.

According to the resolution passed by the school board, the percentage of state aid for the local district has dropped from 48 per cent to 41 per cent during the past three years, with local property owners required, therefore, to absorb many of the cost increases necessary for the operation of the school district.

According to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Frank M. Marlow, the Ontario district has received the same $310 per pupil in state aid for the past three years. "Because of inflation," the Superintendent added, "we're actually receiving less than we did three years ago. As a result, the local property owners are paying more."

The resolution asks that the state aid base for operating expenses be increased from $310 per pupil to $395 per pupil and that the ceiling be increased from $860 per pupil to $1,045 per pupil, the levels in effect three years ago.

Because of the comparative "wealth" of the Ontario district, it is regarded as a "foundation district," meaning it receives the lowest amount of state aid per pupil. Since Ontario spends more than $1,200 per pupil, local property owners must pay the difference between per pupil expenditures and state aid. That amount totals better than $800 per student.

The actual dollar amount of state aid for the Ontario district has increased during the past three years, said Dr. Marlow, but only because enrollment has increased. While state aid, however, has remained essentially at the same level, operating expenses and costs have climbed significantly. And so has the cost to local taxpayers.

The resolution adopted by the school board contains a number of proposals adopted by the New York State Educational Conference Board.

The resolution will be forwarded to state legislators that represent areas of the Ontario School District, the majority and minority leaders of the state legislature, Gov. Rockefeller and all boards of education in Ulster County, urging their support for the proposal.

The school board also tabled the second reading of a new proposed policy that would increase the minimum wage ceiling from $5,000 to $6,000 for senior citizens eligible for a partial tax reduction. The matter will be discussed again at next month's school board meeting.

Dr. Marlow noted that the impact of the proposal on the district's tax structure would have to be examined further.

But the board approved the second reading of a policy that would allow the operation of two late buses where necessary. The measure was adopted as school

The school board approved the expenditure of $9,451 to replace the 22-year-old main boiler at West Hurley Elementary School's No. 1 Building. The old boiler had become inoperative. Because replacement was an emergency procedure, competitive bidding was not required. The boiler was purchased from C. B. Strain and Son, Co., Inc. of Kingston.

In personnel action, the Board of Education accepted with regret the resignations of Miss Carol Countryman, a high school physical education teacher, and Mrs. Earl Jones, a home economics teacher. Both resignations take effect at the end of the school year in June.

WHAT'S FOR DINNER?

ONE OF YOUR MOST VERSATILE STANDBYS IS GROUND MEAT!

It can be prepared so many ways—and tastes different each time. From the kid-pleasing hamburger to meat loaf, stuffed peppers, stuffed cabbage—each has a distinct personality and taste.

If you have a meat grinder, you can really stretch your budget by grinding leftover meats or pieces trimmed from chuck steaks or roasts. If not, you can choose your ground beef from the meat case.

REGULAR GROUND BEEF: Fine for juicy hamburgers or any dish where meat can be drained thoroughly after cooking. Some experts say that even though there is considerable shrinkage, figuring the cost per ounce, it can still be your best buy.

GROUND CHUCK: The most popular ground beef for hamburgers, meat loaves, and other recipes using a combination of ingredients. Juicy and flavorful.

GROUND ROUND: Leaner ground beef for broiled hamburger steaks, and where less fat is desirable.

GROUND SIRLOIN: For low calorie and fat controlled diets.

GROUND BEEF S-T-R-E-T-C-H-E-R-S

If ground beef is one of your favorite budget meals, here are some ways to perk up or stretch the meat mixture.

Add any of the following to ground beef: Bread Crumbs, Cracker Crumbs, Finely crushed Corn Flakes, Grated carrot. Packaged turkey stuffing. Cooked rice.

TRY ANY OF THESE FOR PERKIER TASTE:

- APPLESAUCE in a meatloaf instead of another liquid.
- DRIED ONION SOUP MIX 1/2 package to each pound.
- BOUILLON CUBE: Pour 1 teaspoon boiling water over a beef bouillon cube. Let it set a minute or two. Mash cube hard with a spoon. Pour this liquid beef bouillon into one lb. ground beef. Mix well.

Islanders Played In Wrong Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were two hockey games in Philadelphia Tuesday night and the New York Islanders went to the wrong one.

The sorry Islanders showed up at the Spectrum and were soundly trounced by the Flyers in a National Hockey League game, 8-2. Rick MacLeish accounted for half of Philadelphia's goals, two of them within 27 seconds.

A couple of miles north at the Convention Hall, the World Hockey Association Philadelphia Blazers edged New England 5-4, with Danny Lawson exploding for four goals to match MacLeish's production.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Boston blitzed Vancouver 7-3 and St. Louis took Los Angeles 4-2. In other WHA games, it was Alberta 5, Houston 3, and Chicago 6, Los Angeles 1.

Ironically, both the Philadelphia teams had to come from behind for their victories. The Islanders, who have lost 46 games in their first NHL season, struck for a pair of first period goals before the Flyers blitz started. MacLeish's first two goals less than a half minute apart tied the score early in the second period and before those 20 minutes were over, Philadelphia had three more goals including another by MacLeish.

MacLeish scored his fourth of the game and 34th of the season in a three-goal third period. Lawson got three of his goals for the Blazers in the first period after Ted Greens' bouncing shot eluded goalie Bernie Parent for a brief New England lead.

Lawson got his fourth of the game and 46th of the season in the middle period as the Blazers held off a Whaler comeback sparked by a pair of goals by Tom Earle.

Boston scored its fourth consecutive victory under new coach Bep Guidolin, ripping Vancouver. Veteran Johnny Bucyk and rookie Greg Sheppard scored two goals apiece for the Bruins and scoring leader Phil Esposito connected for his 37th of the season.

St. Louis built a 3-0 lead on goals by Jack Egers, Wayne Merrick and Chris Evans, and then stood off a Los Angeles comeback to beat the Kings.

Ed Joly scored two goals and assisted on another, helping Alberta defeat Houston. The Oilers bunched three of their goals in 2½ minutes late in the second period to take control of the game. Duke Harris scored a pair for Houston.

The Sharks had a chance to vault over Minnesota and into a third-place West Division tie with the Oilers—but Jim McLeod of the last-place Cougars made sure they didn't by kicking out all but one of their shots.

Chicago, meanwhile, unleashed 36 at the Los Angeles nets. And shots by Larry Mavcon, Rick Morris, Rosaire Pavement, Dan Lodboa and Bob Sincinski made it into the goal.

No Love on Valentine's Day

Shouting Gets Louder ...

NEW YORK (AP) — On Valentine's Day 1973 there is, as usual, no love lost between Bowie Kuhn and Marvin Miller.

Peering over opposite sides of the baseball labor fence, Commissioner Kuhn and Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, continue to fire high, hard pitches at one another.

The commissioner charged Tuesday that Miller is trying "to create confusion in the minds of the clubs, players and public regarding the status of negotiations. If a like response is precipitated, the bargaining could degenerate into name-calling. For the moment, I feel this is what Mr. Miller wants and is trying to ferment.

"To avoid this," Kuhn continued, "I have directed that any other response come only from the major league presidents and that it be temperate and businesslike."

"The clubs have pressed for a three-year agreement on all issues," the commissioner said. "I sincerely believe that three years of peace during which we can concentrate strictly on baseball, are vital to the financial health of baseball, players and clubs alike."

Kuhn said that Miller might question his judgment because he is supporting the clubs' position. "I must remind him however that four years ago, I resolved a threatened spring stoppage ... by urging the clubs to increase their offer on pension proposals. As a result, an agreement was reached."

Informed of Kuhn's statement, Miller said, "I fully understand why he is so defensive about the role he has played as coordinator of the owners' negotiating committee."

This latest round of rhetoric in organized baseball's labor headache began Monday when

Miller held a press conference and charged baseball with threatening an illegal lockout. This followed a directive by the two league presidents ordering teams not to open training camps early for pitchers and catchers.

Miller will present the owners' latest proposal to the 24 player representatives on Friday and that the offer will likely be turned over to the entire membership for a vote. But he indicated that such a vote by the players "will be extremely difficult unless they are allowed to gather at spring training camps."

Silas Had No Love for Bob

The name "Boston Celtics" over the idle New York Knicks Bob Dandrich each scored 28 points in the first half of the game. The Celtics won 105-101.

K-State Had Momentum

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas State's basketball team spent most of the evening chasing an elusive commodity called momentum. And they found it just in time.

Lon Kruger pumped in two free throws with 22 seconds left as 15th-ranked Kansas State clawed back from a 13-point deficit for a 67-66 victory over Kansas Tuesday night.

"Momentum sure is a strange thing and I'm glad we finally caught it," said Coach Jack Hartman. "We kept waiting for Kansas to stop hitting that outside jumper but we almost waited too long."

Kansas led 62-49 with 5:30 left before Steve Mitchell, who Larry Williams sparked, came back that night. The disadvantage to 66-65 with 52 seconds remaining. Kansas then attempted a basket but Kruger grabbed it and was fouled. He then bucketed both shots.

In other games involving nationally ranked teams, No. 2 North Carolina State thumped East Carolina 105-70 and No. 5 Marquette whipped Northern Illinois 93-80.

North Carolina State grabbed an early 10-point lead and then rode David Thompson's 33 points to its 20th consecutive victory.

Substitutes played out the final eight minutes for North Carolina State.

Le Moyne Winner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Phil Harlow scored four points in the last five seconds to give Le Moyne a 72-71 win over Ithaca and Potsdam State bucketed 15 points in overtime to down St. John Fisher 92-87 in New York State basketball action Tuesday night.

In other games involving New York State college teams, Rutgers trounced Army 84-61. Buffalo State got by Geneseo 76-69. Canisius downed Catholic University 63-59 and Brockport State walloped hapless Rochester Tech 122-72.

With Ithaca leading 71-68, Harlow hit a jumper with five seconds left. On the ensuing inbounds play, he tied up Ithaca's Bill Folkins for a jump ball. Harlow lost the tip but retrieved the ball on a deflection and hit the winning basket with no time left on the clock.

Harlow led all scorers with 30 points while Dave Hollowell topped Ithaca with 21. Le Moyne is now 11-6 and Ithaca 11-5. Potsdam led St. John Fisher by nine at the half, but the hosts caught up by the end of regulation play to knot the score at 77 apiece.

Potsdam scored the first five points in the extra period, five on free throws, for a margin that held up. Mike Deane led the winners with 23 points and 18 assists. Ted Bente added 20 for Potsdam while Carl Wenzel led St. John Fisher with 22.

Center Gene Armistead tallied 20 points in leading Rutgers over Army. Bob Sherwin led the Cadets with 25 and kept Army close for most of the contest with his outside shooting.

Five men scored in double figures as Buffalo led all the ways in beating Geneseo. Mike Bonds, Jay Hickey and Bernie Ostanski each tallied 13 points for the winning Bengals. Geneseo got 21 points from Tom Basher.

SAME OLD ALI — Stepping up his week-long psychological "war" against opponent Joe Bugner (R) European heavyweight champion from London, England, Muhammad Ali stifles yawn during Tuesday medical checkup by Dr. Donald Remo (C). Ali is 7-1 pick to win tonight. (UPI)

Tab Ali 7-1 Favorite

By JIM COUR

UPI Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, the aging 31-year-old former champion who insists he's still the best, is a strong favorite Wednesday night to dispose of European heavyweight titleholder Joe Bugner, his former sparring partner, in a 12-round fight.

"I guess I've slowed down a little but I still have three or four more years left," said Ali in a moment of rare candor. The former Cassius Clay won the title from Sonny Liston nine years ago this month.

"I need more sleep now because you begin to feel it when you get over 30 in this business."

It will be Ali's first fight of the year and 10th since suffering the only loss of his career to Joe Frazier in 1971. Despite 7-1 odds, the 1960 Olympic champion has worked hard for his fight with the 6-foot-4 Bugner, sparring 10 rounds and working an additional five rounds two days before the bout.

"We never have taken Bugner lightly," insisted trainer Angelo Dundee.

However, Ali has predicted that he will knock out his Hungarian-born opponent in seven rounds and the fight will be another "St. Valentine's Day Massacre."

"I boxed 40 rounds with Ali as a sparring partner and he doesn't frighten me," said Bugner, 22. "He tried to get to me when I first came to this country—I think you call it psyching me out—but I just ignored it."

"I don't like him much as a person but I admire his talent in getting publicity as a fighter."

In addition to nine years in age and an inch in height, Bugner, who now lives in London, is expected to outweigh Ali 220 to 212 pounds. And he will have a reach advantage of 13½ inches. Bugner, who has been fighting professionally since 1967, has a 44-4-1 record compared to Ali's 40-1 mark. He won the European title on a 15-round decision from Henry Cooper of England in 1971. But he dropped the crown to another Englishman, Jack Bodell, the same year on a 15-round decision.

Bugner regained the championship last Oct. 10 by stopping Germany's Jurgen Blin in eight rounds, and he made a successful title defense last month with a dull 15-round decision over Holland's Rudy Libbers.

"I guess I didn't look so good in my last fight, but I wasn't trying to prove anything," Bugner said.

"All I wanted to do was keep my title without taking any chances of getting cut."

Ali will be making his second straight start in Nevada. He knocked out light heavyweight champion Bob Foster in eight rounds at Stateline last Nov. 21, weighing 221½ for his last fight. The 12-rounder at the Las Vegas Convention Center will begin at 10:15 p.m. EST.

Rockland Offense Challenges UCCCC

SUFFERN Concordia in which Wade Pittman set a Rockland school record of 51 points. Rockland, running a nine-game winning streak, is averaging 93 points, with Pittman (28.9) and Larry Frazier (21.3) accounting for just over 50 points a game between them. So, how did Pittman size up the game which is crucial to Rockland's hopes for a Region XV berth?

"A disciplined defense is our best chance," said the trim Rockland coach, who in the off-season is one of the best amateur golfers in the metropolitan area. "Nobody can play catchup ball against Ulster. It's impossible. We've come a long since Ulster beat us the first time. Where were we on. We knew where we're at and we know where we'd like to go." Meaning, of course the Region XV tournament. Rockland moves into the game with some amazing individual shooting percentages. Pittman is hitting on 53.4 per cent of his shots. Frazier 46.3, Robert Oswald 51 per cent, Frank Pepe 45 and Charlie Jackson, 50 per cent. On the scoring side, Pittman is hitting 28.9 per game, Frazier 21.3, Pepe 14, Jackson, 13.7 and Oswald an even 10. No team in the conference can match these offense statistics — not even Ulster. Rockland will score, but will Ulster score more, that's the question. "You must have a disciplined defense to cope with Ulster," said Pittman. "and I think we'll have it. Ulster's triangle-and-2 broke the first game apart but we'll be ready for them this time." Seeing to build a strong case for the possibility of a Rockland victory, Pittman noted that "we have the board strength and rebounding. Frazier is averaging about 15 rebounds a game and Pittman 14." One actor in Rockland's favor is the phenomenal outside shooting ability of Frazier and Pittman. Either can hit consistently from 25 out, a valuable weapon against a zone defense, if Coach Perry chooses to go in that direction. "If we keep our cool, we have a chance... our only chance," Pittman concluded. "Against Westchester we led by 10 points with less than five minutes to play. One of our players drew a double technical and we fell apart. I don't think that will happen tonight." Like all Ulster opponents, Coach Pittman can face up to the truth. "We're going against a super team and we know it. And there's no question that Jackie Knowles is the best player in the conference. We're not kidding ourselves. We know what we have to do to win."

Stats Tell the Tale of Coleman's Victory

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON worth a second glance. But if Ellenville, take a quick look at hit on 35 per cent of its tries while Coleman was sinking into 28 per cent and Ellenville left the floor with a 31-24 lead. But the second half was something else. Coleman found the range and cracked the Ellie's zone defense to the tune of a 56 per cent field goal average while Ellenville continued to struggle against Coleman's 2-3, connecting only 18 per cent of the time.

As a result, Coleman turned the game around. It outscored Ellenville 20-7 in the third session and built a 12-point lead midway through the fourth period at which time the Ellie's went to a press and the Statesmen committed some crucial fouls to give the losers a late shot at it. But the Ellie's had fallen too far behind and couldn't make up enough of the deficit.

In the coach Bill DuBois, "we weren't hitting the boards and we didn't shoot well. In the second half, we hit the boards, we hit the shots, and we had better movement."

"They outplayed us," Ellenville coach Frank Muller commented. "You can't take anything away from them." Muller was a disappointed man after the defeat, but probably only half as much as he was when he later found out that Liberty had beaten Marlboro. Had Ellenville topped Coleman, the Ellie's would have moved into a virtual tie for first place. Now, they're still on the outside looking in.

Ellenville is by no means dead, but things could have been a lot easier with a win over Coleman. And for a while Tuesday, it looked like a win was just what the Ellie's were going to get.

Coleman had taken a 12-10 first quarter advantage, but neither team was playing particularly well. In the second quarter, however, Ray Younger, the fastest man in the league, woke up and raced all over the floor, intercepting passes, stealing the ball from Coleman's guards, and putting it in the hoop.

Younger hit 13 points and his team added eight more in that period enabling Ellenville to go into the locker room with that seven-point edge. The speedy Younger wasn't alone. Reserve guard Glenn Karow did a fine job penetrating Coleman's zone, and Al Steele and Leon Ware were tough underneath.

The total product, plus the play of a Statesmen team that looked sluggish at best, gave Ellenville a lift.

But in the third period, Coleman's Duane Carey threw in two bombs, John Guess tallied from up close, and Phil Suddenly Coleman was in front, 35-32.

Then the Statesmen really got rolling. Palladino and Carey tallied four points apiece while Ellenville could retaliate with a pair of Steele hoops and the advantage was 44-38.

That's what Coleman carried into the fourth quarter and that's what it maintained right up until the 4:14 to go mark and the Statesmen ahead, 54-44. Ellenville pressed at that point, but as Muller said later, "It was a desperation move. I don't think I went to it too late, because Coleman handled it well the last time."

The Ellie's did manage to cut the bulge to 57-54, scoring five points from the line, but time just wasn't on their side.

Younger, boosted by his strong second quarter, topped all scorers with 21 points. Center Ricky Kaplan added 11. Carey paced Coleman with 17 points and 14 rebounds. Palladino had 16 points and also cleared 14 caroms.

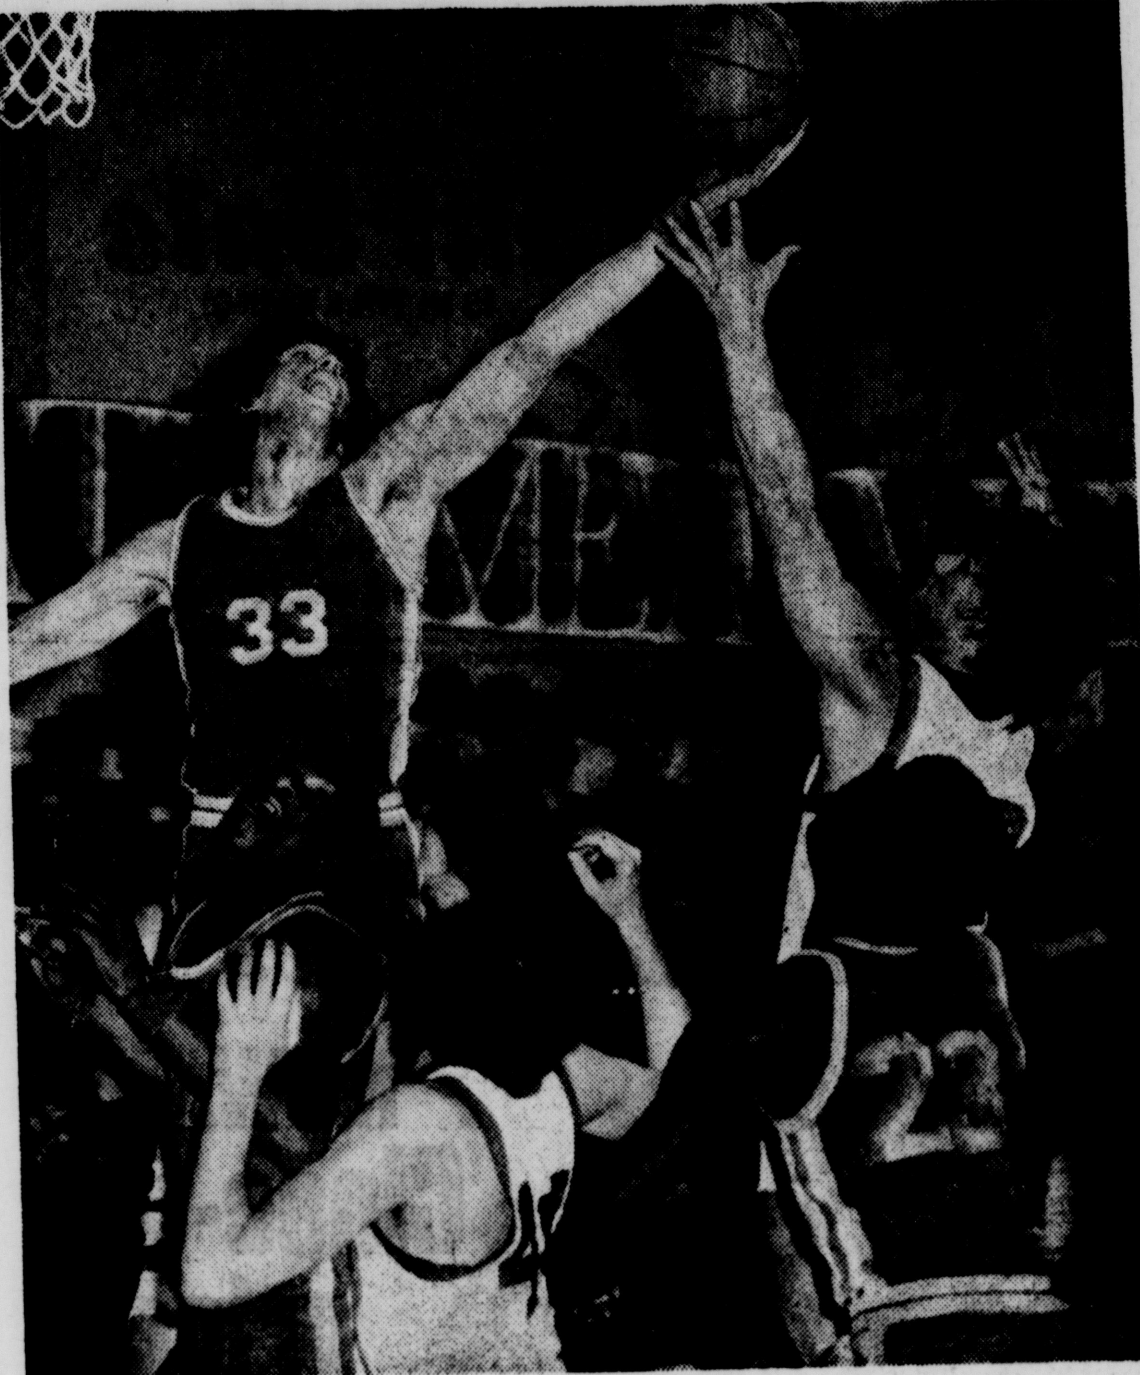

The Statesmen aren't out of the race yet either, but their chances are slim at best.

Nevertheless, Coleman will have plenty to say about the final outcome since its final game is at home against first place Marlboro.

Coleman's JV team had an easy time winning its 14th straight in the opener, 52-21. Kevin Coughlin scored 16 points and Mike Fay contributed 12. The varsity box:

BIG MAN HAS IT— Even when you're as good a rebounder as Coleman High School's Duane Carey, you have trouble getting the ball away from a 6-6 opponent as Carey (white uniform on right) learned in Tuesday night's game. That's the Ellenville giant Ricky Kaplan (33) stretching to take this one. Watching are (L-R) Ellenville's Leon Ware, Coleman Phil Palladino, and Ellenville's Jim Whaley. Coleman won, 59-54. Hot Liberty Sends Dukes to Defeat

LIBERTY Dukes tried to press, Liberty High School put on another one of its hometown shooting sprees here Tuesday night, and dumped the Marlboro Dukes, 68-52 to keep the pressure boiling in the UCLAL's Southern Division.

Other league games included Red Hook's 66-51 victory over New Paltz and Highland's 47-45 squaker over Pine Bush.

Liberty, which has already clinched the Northern Division with a record that now stands at 11-2, continued its unbeaten streak at home with the victory. Shooting 55 per cent from the floor, the Redskins went on a fourth period tear during which they outscored the Dukes 24-12 by hitting three quarters of their field goal attempts.

Marlboro was struggling to fight back from its first loss of the season when came at Ellenville last week. The Dukes played deliberate ball, ran up a quick ten-point lead, and were ahead 15-10 after one period, but they just could not hold out against the Liberty shooters.

Ivan Richards got hot in the second period to boost the home team out in front by four at the intermission. The winners added four more to the margin in the third quarter, and when the Bushman coach George Drutman moaned over his team's 11-of-23 performance from the foul line. He added Pine Bush has been under 50 per cent from the charity stripe in its last six games.

Liberty's Tom Van Slyke was high man with 18 points while teammates Richards and Rnd Yaun were good for 16 each. Mario Berry chipped in 14. Marlboro was led by Dennis Pesavento and Pim Pagano who each collected 14 points.

Marlboro is now 10-2 but still a half game ahead of Ellenville in the standings.

Red Hook took a quarter to get rolling then broke away from the Hokies to win going away. John Funk led some balanced Raider scoring as he canned 17 points. Dane Kilgour got 16. Jim Marriken added 11 and Rich Dalzell had 10.

Paul Bartow and Mike Clinton had 12 each as New Paltz slipped to 3-9. Red Hook is now 7-5.

Roy Sears, J.C. Gersch and Clyde Napier powered Highland out to a big lead Pine Bush could never overcome. The threesome split 37 points and Highland led 39-28 after three quarters.

Junior Bill Drexel totalled 12 points and led the Bushmen back to within two points in the final period, but Pine Bush couldn't pull it out and suffered their 11th loss in 13 games.

Rondout Wrestlers Trim Roosevelt Team, 33-20

HYDE PARK The 7-4 Ganders travel to Ed Lowe won the critical 177 Pine Bush for a UCLAL match point bout for Rondout Valley here Tuesday and the Ganders went on to score a 33-20 varsity wrestling victory over Roosevelt.

With the overall outcome in doubt, Lowe provided Rondout with the breathing room it needed as he pinned Bill Perdone at 5:45. That clinched it for the Ganders, but 215-pounder Rich Gilliland then added some icing by beating Bill Kishner, 7-2. Tom Barry, Tim Rein, Ted Nadratowski, Bob Krom, and David DuBois had won earlier for Rondout and Steve Coddington held his man to a draw.

KHS Hands Monties First Loss in Skiing

Gary Fisher is his name, and Monday night he saw action for the second time since joining the ranks of the eligible as the Hawks turned back Castleton, Vt., State, 95-68, for their fourth win in 19 starts.

How much did Fisher contribute? Plenty. The frosh from Wyandinch scored a game high 24 points, and pulled down 24 rebounds as New Paltz dominated the losers underneath by a resounding 72 to 40 margin.

Fisher was joined by husky Bob Lucas, who contributed 22 points, and slick guard Glenn Hudson, who canned 18.

The Hawks played even with Castleton in the first half and left the floor with a six-point bulge, 41-35. But in the second half, New Paltz went to work and rolled up 54 points to Castleton's 33. And how many times do you remember New Paltz doing that in one half?

Montie lassies and suffered a 197-219 defeat. "Outstanding performances by Don Boyce and Jim Hanstein gave us the edge," said KHS coach Tony Badalato following the boys victory.

Ken Burgess was fifth, Bob Abramsky seventh, Gary Reynolds eighth, and Tom Speisman ninth for the now 6-3 Maroons.

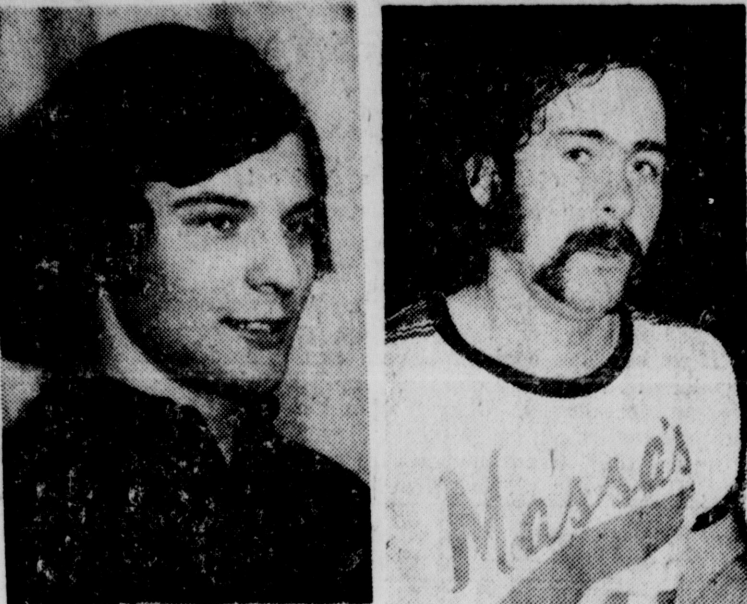

In the girls race, Kingston's Nancy Kolln was only 1.3 seconds off the pace set by first place Debbie Stratton of Monticello, but two of Stratton's teammates managed to tie at 39.2 and finish ahead of Kolln.

The Montie lassies remain unbeaten at 9-0, while Kingston's record dropped to 4-4.

Dutchess Sport Show

FREEDOM PLAINS The 8th Annual Sportsmen's Show staged by the Federation of Dutchess County Fish and Game Clubs, will be held March 3-4 at Arlington Senior High School, Route 55, Freedom Plains. Show chairman is William D. Reiner.

There will be four stage shows a day as in previous years but this year the 8 p. m. shows both days will be given by local talent. Reiner reports that all of the most popular features of the show have been retained, but some improvements have been made.

More space will be devoted this year to camping and equipment designed for the average family budget. Other displays include a $100,000 conservation trailer owned by the State Conservation Department.

TEEN FORUM

HANDS: (Q) I love this girl very much, but I have not told her this I have just told her I like her a lot. She says she likes me a lot too. The real problem is that she doesn't want her friends (girl type) to know about our very deep friendship because she thinks they will get mad at her or something like that.

We have held hands twice. The first time was at a marching contest when nobody could see because we had jackets over our laps. The second time was on the bus coming back from the game, when it was dark.

I haven't had any more chances—Help in Alabama.

(A) Why don't you just try holding her hand out in the open? There's nothing indecent about it. If she really likes you a lot she should be able to stand any remarks her friends make about your handholding.

MAKEUP: (Q) I would like to know if it is safe to wear makeup as long as 12 hours. I wear a generous amount of foundation that is hypoallergenic and is supposed to help prevent blemishes. At night I wash my face well and apply a moisturizer.

Also I wear mascara and eyeliner and a cover-up around my eyes because I have rings there.—15 in Wisconsin.

(A) You are wearing a lot of makeup to be only 15. But it shouldn't hurt you if you clean it off nightly and let your skin breathe while you sleep.

The moisturizer treatment at night is good. If your skin is dry you should use it during the day, under the foundation. You live in cold climate, which is hard on the skin. Makeup, properly handled, can serve not only as a beauty aid but also as a skin protector.

Remember the television show "You Are There"? Today you are back playing in the finals of the 1930 Vanderbilt.

Cover up the East and West hands and try to play four hearts. You got there after the bidding shown in the box but remember you are back in 1930.

West opens the deuce of spades. East takes the ace and returns the queen. You play the same time.

your king. West ruffs and leads the jack of clubs. You play low from dummy. East plays the seven. Plan your play!

If clubs are going to break 3-3 you let the jack hold. Eventually you will be able to discard your last spade on dummy's fourth club.

Suppose East has four clubs. You will still make your contract because you will draw two rounds of trumps; cash two high diamonds; ruff your last diamond; and play the last two trumps while discarding dummy's last spade. East will be squeezed in spades and clubs and you will still come to your 10 tricks.

When Ely Culbertson played the hand he had a different idea. He decided that West would be long in clubs so he won the trick; drew trumps. Then he played king, ace and his last diamond to ruff in dummy; cashed dummy's king of clubs and threw East in with a spade.

Now look at the East-West cards. Ely was right. He had stripped the hand and East had to lead a fourth spade which allowed Ely to ruff in dummy spades. East discards his losing club and returns the same time.

'Here We Go Again'...

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — All night, now. Quicky. What is "Here We Go Again"?

Clues: It was not recorded by George Burns or Elvis Presley, and it was not written by Harold Robbins or Irving Wallace.

Further hints: Some critics apparently like it, and it is also undoubtedly well thought of by the relatives of those who work on it.

It is, in fact, possible that the critics and relatives make up the majority of people who know what "Here We Go Again" is, and that it exists.

Well, the sad story of "Here We Go Again" is this:

—It is a new half-hour ABC-TV comedy series whose arrival has been obliterated because:

—It is opposite the remarkably popular No. 1-rated show on television, CBS-TV's "All in the Family," and, as a result:

—"Here We Go Again" is dead last in the national video ratings for the week ending Feb. 4.

Now, there have been shows that have finished last and deserved it. But this is a series which, though it may not be the greatest thing ever to come along, does have possibilities because of its premise, which is:

An attractive couple get married. It is, however, not the first marriage for either husband or wife. They are

It is, of course, television situation comedy, and sometimes it gets out of hand in the usual commercial way. But there are also times when there are amusing thrills in the direction of contemporary relationships.

If ABC-TV wants to learn whether it really has something going with "Here We Go Again," it can, of course, switch its time slot.

This is what it did with some other programs at midseason, and the latest national ratings, released Monday, indicate that their upward surge in the statistics since the switches apparently is no fluke. Examples:

"Kung Fu," the show about a fugitive Chinese-American Buddhist priest roaming the American western frontier, tied for 16th place.

"The Streets of San Francisco," a police series, finished in a tie for 26th.

And "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law" came in 28th.

But if ABC-TV is happy about these figures, it must be mystified—along with many viewers and industry experts—about the final proof of the astounding ratings failure of the movie "Lawrence of Arabia" in the film's first video run.

"Lawrence" was shown as a two-parter on ABC-TV. In the previous national rankings, the first segment came in 39th. And now the latest ratings report that the second part placed 43rd among 64 listed entries.

But if ABC-TV is shocked, NBC-TV must be delighted that it knocked off the second segment of this blockbuster movie by putting up against it, as part of its Monday night series of motion pictures, the much more modestly budgeted film, "Diary of a Mad Housewife."

"Diary," with Richard Benjamin and Carrie Snodgrass, came in a powerful seventh in the national ratings. And another intimate, contemporary, modestly budgeted film with Benjamin (and All MacGraw), "Goodbye, Columbus," was close behind in ninth place, for ABC-TV. Viewers' increasingly contemporary interests are a message here.

Devaluation... Quick Approval Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appears likely to write tougher wage-price controls than Nixon has mapped out for his economic Phase 3, as an additional measure to restore the health of the country's foreign trade and monetary stability.

But some leading Democrats indicated that the follow-up trade legislation, while it is also promised prompt consideration, will be scrutinized more critically.

There were hints also of a possible effort in Congress to establish a permanent lower value for the dollar, which was devalued 10 per cent Monday night by executive action.

A Senate Banking Committee spokesman said it probably could begin hearings a week later.

Trade legislation, so far outlined only in general terms by Nixon, would have to originate in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., commenting "this is an emergency," promised quick consideration, implying that if necessary he would interrupt tax-reform hearings to consider administration trade proposals.

But Mills expressed reservations about plans, hinted in administration statements, for a selective surcharge on imports from countries not cooperating with U.S. plans for solving the trade-monetary tangle.

Nixon said, in informal remarks Tuesday, that he wants U.S. negotiators to have authority to raise as well as lower tariffs on various products in bargaining with other countries.

Chairman Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., of the joint international economics subcommittee, welcomed the prospect of a trade bill "even though the fine print in the bill will need to be subjected to close scrutiny."

A Strong Opening

LONDON (AP) — The dollar the last day the market was opened strong on the Frankfurt foreign currency market today.

The U.S. decision Monday night to devalue for the second time in 14 months, and by an unexpectedly large 10 per cent, was seen in Europe as almost certain to halt the tremendous selling wave of dollars. But fears were voiced that the dollar crisis now may turn to speculation against other currencies and a new bout of monetary turmoil.

Five financially important countries now are allowing their currencies to float outside fixed exchange rates, adding to the confusion. They are Britain, Canada, Italy, Japan and Switzerland.

A number of governments were expected to adjust their currencies in the next few days. Israel, Indonesia, South Africa and South Korea decided Tuesday to follow the dollar down and devalue by 10 per cent. Most developing countries were expected to follow suit and retain the dollar as the major standard for international currency dealings, but at reduced rates.

Only countries with relatively strong currencies were standing pat and not following the dollar down. Examples were France, the Netherlands and West Germany.

Financial sources in London said they suspected the dollar devaluation would be enough to reverse the growing American balance of payments deficit.

Japanese Finance Minister Kiichi Aichi told the lower house of the Diet that the government would help small and medium-size businesses, which are expected to be hit hardest by the upward movement of Japan's currency.

He also said Japan will try to find an appropriate new rate for the yen during the period of fluctuation but, at the present time, the government can't say how long the float will last.

Antihijacking Agreement Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Cuba are expected to sign an antihijacking agreement by the end of this week, it has been learned.

The official time frame was put at a "few days" by Secretary of State William P. Rogers in Miami Beach, Fla., Tuesday night. But it is understood this means by Saturday at the latest.

Only minor details remain to be worked out. They concern such matters as arranging for the signing and exchanging of texts, and officials say there is no chance of a breakdown over these procedural matters.

Even though high administration officials from President Nixon on down through Rogers have acknowledged an agreement has been reached, no one would discuss the substance of the accord.

Nixon said Tuesday that Rogers would disclose the contents at an appropriate time, but sources said the silence resulted from an agreement with Havana not to disclose details until all procedural matters were concluded.

While no official would talk even privately about the agree-

Ford Hopes for Better Things

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. officials hope they can meet government antipollution standards scheduled for the years ahead with a little less unfavorable publicity than those mandated for 1973 brought.

They'd like to bring the cost down as well.

Ford's problems with the 1973 standards started last April during emission testing required by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Unauthorized maintenance performed on the engines and exhaust systems of some of the test cars invalidated the test results and falsified reports presented by Ford to the EPA.

When company officials notified the EPA of this last summer, retesting of the cars was ordered. The procedure itself was costly—Ford won't say how costly—and the introduction of the 1973 models had to be postponed for a week, an additional financial setback.

Then on Tuesday, Ford was slapped with a $7 million fine by the government for violating provisions of the clean air act through its improper testing and false reports.

In the same cooperative stance it had maintained since the start, Ford immediately complied—presenting U.S. Attorney Ralph Guy Jr. of Detroit with two checks, each good for $3.5 million. One check, to cover the criminal fine, was made out to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan. The other, to cover the settlement in the Justice Department's civil suit, was made out simply to the United States of America.

Ford had pleaded no contest on the criminal counts and concluded the civil suit by signing a consent judgment.

Ford officials and company spokesmen had no comment on the matter outside of that offered by Wright Tisdale, Ford vice president and general counsel, in a formal statement.

"We believe that the conclusion of the matter serves the best interests of both parties," Tisdale said. "With this matter resolved, Ford now is free to turn its full attention to the difficult task of attempting to meet emission standards applicable to new motor vehicles manufactured in 1975 and later model years."
